

Busy days slated for Apollo 15 astronauts visit

By HENRY CANTIN
The Apollo 15 astronauts will have two busy days when they arrive in Michigan Friday.
Astronauts Col. David R. Scott and Lt. Col. James B. Irwin, who explored the surface of the moon last month, and Major Alfred M. Worden, who piloted the command module "Endeavor," will arrive at the Detroit City Airport at 10 a.m. Friday to begin their two days of speeches, parades and personal appearances.

The trio, which accomplished man's fourth successful lunar landing expedition, will make a Saturday appearance in New Boston.
The NASA National Aeronautics and Space Administration approved appearance of the astronauts in New Boston is the results of efforts made by Police Chief Christopher Maciolek and Mrs. Mary Lou Carey, Huron Township clerk.

New Boston's first police and firemen's field day with parade and field day exhibits for area children will be held on Saturday.

It was in the making of plans for the field day that Chief Maciolek and Mrs. Casey thought it would be an excellent idea if they could get one of the astronauts to appear in behalf of the area youth.

Making their appeal through the offices of congressman William D. Ford, who forwarded the request to NASA, the appearance of all three Apollo 15 astronauts was approved.

The chief's idea of staging a police and firemen's field day and parade, aimed at bringing about closer and better relations and communications with township youth, has mushroomed into what is expected to be the biggest parade and event in the history of the township of about 8,000 residents.

The township is expecting from 40,000 to 50,000 persons to greet the astronauts, all of whom have Michigan backgrounds.

The parade will start at 10 a.m. at Huron River Dr. and Sterling Street and pass through New Boston to St. Stephen's Catholic Church, located at 18858 Huron River Dr. Parade entries will be dispersed at three different locations to avoid traffic tie-ups.

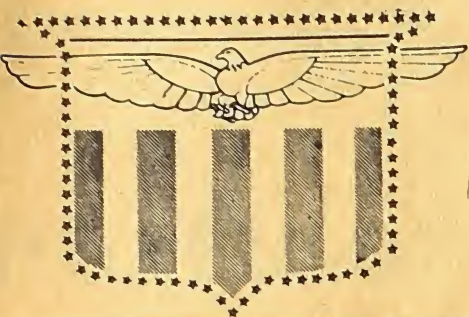

The astronauts will speak from a review stand erected at the New Boston Elementary School, then attend a noon luncheon at St. Stephen's Church Hall where admission will be by invitation only.

The arrival of the astronauts in New Boston is scheduled for 11 a.m. They will be escorted into town by a Huron Township Police Department patrol car. They will leave at 4 p.m. to attend the air show at Willow Run Airport.

On Friday, the astronauts will speak to more than 1,000 members of the Detroit Economic Club in Cobo Hall and then make an appearance at the Michigan State Fair to see an earth model of the electric powered rover car they drove on three moon exploration trips.

They will be the featured guests of officials of the National Aviation and Space Exposition at Willow Run Airport Sept. 11. Scott and Irwin will board a jet at Willow Run Airport at 4 p.m. Saturday for Houston.

Liquor license debate goes on

By HENRY CANTIN

Ramada Inn of Romulus was to be before the Romulus City Council again this week seeking approval for a liquor license for the new $4 million establishment, located at 8270 Wickham Rd. near the Detroit Metropolitan Airport.

Officials of the Ramada Inns, Inc., will be asking the council's approval of a transfer of a resort tavern license from a business located in Green Oak Township in Livingston County.

The transfer classification from Resort Tavern (10-month license) to Class B-Hotel (12-month license) has been approved by the Michigan Liquor Control Commission (MLCC), it was reported.

The transfer also must have the approval of city council. At the Aug. 24 session of the council, B.B. Moshier, counselor for Ramada Inn and its representatives, made a plea for approval of a Class C liquor license, one of six new Class C licenses now available to Romulus.

After a considerable amount of discussion the council tabled a motion to grant the license to Ramada. Council deferred its formal decision until Sept. 16.

It has been learned that the Holiday Inn, located in the vicinity of the Metro Airport, also has asked for a hearing before council on its long-pending request for a Class C license.

An increase in Romulus' population has resulted in an allocation by the MLCC of six new Class C licenses for the community. There are 57 applicants for the licenses, council reported.

The Ramada Inn opened its motel facilities Aug. 24. Grand opening ceremonies and other facilities await the council's decision.

An MLCC spokesman stated that resort licenses are moveable. Transfers are made at the discretion of the commission.

In approving the transfer of the resort license, Romulus would have to waive the fees on renewing licenses as the fees have been already distributed to Green Oak Township.

The delay of granting Ramada Inn its license has caused considerable amount of discussion in the community. The views of members of Romulus City Council follow:

Councilman Edmund W. Bizek said, "I am not against Ramada Inn having a license. The only thing I object to and can't understand is that a $4 million business like this comes into Romulus, builds its facilities without first getting a commitment. Here we have small people seeking licenses. Some have been waiting nearly 20 years. I think that one of the available licenses should be given to a Negro for the north end of town. We have 12 licenses in the city now and none of them are for a Negro. I think they should have one."

"I am not against Ramada Inn. I think we should make a thorough study of the applicants seeking one of the licenses. I am against allowing all of them for big business. The mayor has expressed a feeling that four licenses go to business. I want to give three now and hold three in abeyance as an inducement to get others in Romulus," added Bizek.

"In connection with the reported request by Ramada Inn for the transfer of a resort license, I am against it if so are we going to lose one of the six licenses."

Councilman Fred Junior Block said, "I think that Recall petitions still circulating

A recall campaign against Mayor Hyle J. Carmichael and Romulus' seven-man council initiated by John Sabich, 9452 Barry, is continuing.

The recall petitions, about 60 in number, have been circulated in the city in a drive for 1,248 signers, required for a recall election, according to Sabich.

Sabich, an inspector at the General Motors plant in Livonia, is a three-year resident of Romulus.

He and some supporters of a local police department began the recall campaign following the July 28 decision of Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Charles S. Farmer against an injunction request to halt the law enforcement takeover by the Wayne County Sheriff's Road Patrol Division.

The Romulus Police Officers Association (RPOA) had initiated a court suit against the city charging that the City Charter adopted in May, 1970 called for a city-operated police department and not an outside agency.

On Aug. 10, a five-year contract between the city and the Wayne County Sheriff's Department was signed by city and county officials.

Asked about the progress of his recall campaign, Sabich

Romulus teacher pact tentative OK reached

The Romulus Education Association ratified a new teacher employment contract for the 1971-72 school year, Assistant School Superintendent William E. Jakad announced yesterday.

The association, bargaining agent for the school district's 280 teachers, ratified the new one-year contract at a meeting held in Romulus early Tuesday.

The contract calls for salary increases subject to the presidential wage-price freeze of Aug. 15. In addition, the new agreement calls for improvement in insurance fringe benefit program as it applies to hospitalization, medical and dental services.

Both the Romulus Board of Education and the Romulus Education Association negotiating teams reached a tentative agreement under mediation early Sunday morning.

The negotiations on the new contract began in March. The former teacher contract expired Aug. 15.

The new salary schedules under the new pact are as follows:

Teachers with a Bachelor of Arts degree will receive a starting pay of $8,500 as against $8,000 last year. Holders of Masters of Arts degree will receive a starting pay of $9,500 against $9,000 and Education Specialists will start at $10,500, up from $10,000 last year.

The new salary maximums after 10 years of service are holders of BA's $13,550; MA's $16,000 and education specialist, $16,700. These maximum rates compare with $12,900, $15,000 and $16,000 under the old contract.

The improvement in insurance fringe benefits is full family coverage with no price limitation, plus the choice of a dental program if they don't subscribe to hospitalization or medical.

This is the first year that teachers have the choice on the dental program.

The Board of Education is expected to give its formal approval at the next school board meeting.

CHANGING POLICE UNIFORMS — Five members of the Romulus Police Department, dissolved as of Sept. 1 when the Wayne County Sheriff's Department took over the law enforcement in Romulus, have agreed to accept transfers. The men who will be assigned to Romulus are exchanging their

Wilhelmi, Urban Renewal director. Standing (from left) are Larry E. White, area representative of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development; Clayton Meldrum, Manager of Romulus Building Department; and Charles W. Hazen, director of planning and community development for Romulus. The Warrens have built a new home.

Dedication draws near

Showing of municipal complex set Sept. 19

Final preparations of an elaborate program for the dedication and grand opening ceremonies for Romulus' new municipal building and library are nearing completion.

Formal invitations to the event, to be held at 2 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 19, have been mailed to numerous United States, Michigan, county and city administrative officials, including governmental units from surrounding communities.

Plans for the dedication of the initial facilities of Romulus' municipal complex, located on a 16-acre city-owned parcel of land at the southeast corner of Goddard and S. Wayne Roads, have been under way for some time.

Nearly all aspects of community living — residential, business, professional and school — will be taking part in the dedication and weeklong open house, Mayor Hyle J. Carmichael announced. The hours of the open house will be from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. The full week of festivities has been arranged and prepared by the Civic Center Grand Opening Committee, a group of 25 persons representing all sections of community life.

Plans for the dedication include a possible appearance by Governor William G. Milliken.

Among the guests are expected to be U.S. Cong. William D. Ford, State Sen. William Faust, State Rep. Edward E. Mahalak, Wayne County Sheriff William Lucas; James M. Davey, managing director of the Wayne County Road Commission; 34th District Judge James B. Stone, members of Romulus City Council and guests.

Governmental officials from nearly all of Western Wayne County communities, prominent professional and business leaders have been invited to attend the event.

The city's administrative staffs and department heads are occupying the facilities, as well as library personnel.

The Romulus Progressive Club has purchased 10,000 memento coins to mark the occasion. The club will distribute the coins to visitors at the municipal complex and guests to the dedication and open house.

The city's service organizations, clubs, Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) unit, bank branch of the Manufacturers National Bank, school officials and school bands are participating in all phases of the dedication.

The Romulus Jaycees will donate a city flag for the new council chambers, while the VFW will provide an American flag. Plaques for the municipal building and library are being donated by the Romulus branch of the Manufacturers National Bank.

The Romulus Public Library and the Romulus Literary Club are compiling a history of Romulus covering the last 100 years which will be available.

A 12-page historic document commemorating the event is being prepared.

PCHA board remains center of controversy

By JOE CHAREST

The Peoples Community Hospital Authority (PCHA), where political wrangling and internal turmoil have been a custom since the Authority's messy 1965 scandal, is not destined to have a calmer time of it in the next few months.

There are several indications that another major confrontation between the enemies involved, both on the Board of Directors and off, will occur.

Violent debate between the dissident faction on the board and the present leadership marks every board meeting. The great majority of it develops between Ecorse representative Tracey E. Salisbury and present Board Chairman Donald J. Pizzimenti, whose position has been strongly challenged by Salisbury in each of the last two annual elections.

In addition, Michigan Attorney General Frank J. Kelley's office this year intensified an ongoing investigation into PCHA financial procedures, an investigation which continues from the original scandal in 1965.

Indications are that people in that office will continue the intensification until they feel they have looked into everything which merits investigation.

But the strongest augury of the hard times ahead for PCHA leaders is the resurfacing of Kenneth Gremore, central figure in the mid-60s scandal.

Gremore was executive director at the time. He was fired for alleged mismanagement of funds. Since that time he has operated behind the scenes in an effort to topple the present power structure on the authority.

Maddox to speak at Center

Mrs. E. Forrest Chapman of Belleville, Wayne County Coordinator for the American Independent Party, announced that Lt. Gov. Lester G. Maddox of Georgia will be their guest speaker at the Dearborn Youth Center Oct. 2. Mrs. Chapman stated that Maddox is a firm supporter of Constitutional Government and has stood for such in Georgia. He is an exception in contemporary political life in that he maintains a strong belief in Americanist principles. The Wayne County Coordinator also stated that support for the AIP in Michigan has grown during the last six months. "It's amazing how many people say that they will vote for Wallace regardless of the scare tactics employed by the other parties." At a dinner for Wallace in Toledo recently, Michigan was well represented. Mrs. Chapman, co-chairman of the Appreciation Dinner, stated that Wallace reaffirmed some basic patriotic beliefs and that he was leaving his options open as to whether he will run for President. But, Mrs. Chapman stated: "He said in 1968 that if Nixon did not live up to his campaign promises, then he would have no choice but to run, and since Mr. Wallace is a man to keep his word, he won't let us down." Mrs. Chapman also stated that the AIP is the only party not controlled by the One World Internationalist Group and that is such its main objective is to promote a strong constitutional form of government and the rights of the individual.

Cubs plan corn roast

A corn roast and picnic is planned for the pack night gathering of Cub Scout Pack 830 scheduled for Saturday, Sept. 18, at Lower Huron Metropolitan Park. The dinner will begin at 5 p.m., with each family bringing a dish to pass. Following the dinner, a Webelos campfire ceremony will be held.

TO MAKE ROOM FOR URBAN RENEWAL — The Romulus Urban Renewal office purchased the old homestead of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Warren, located at 6236 Carnegie St. (left) The purchase was the first of 90 some pieces of property involved in the Phase One of the city's Urban Renewal Program. The properties are also part of the initial 175 acres located in the Beverly-Wayne Roads areas that are to be developed by UR. The home displayed is the new residence of Mr. and Mrs. Warren. The new home, built by Warren is located at 33160 Ecorse Rd., near the Urban Renewal area now under preparations for the first stages of re-development.

Q. Is there a "State Law" that says a Vault must be used for every burial?

A. No, but it is a requirement of most cemeteries today. They usually specify that an "Outer Encasing" be used. The fact being, as time proceeds, the ground will have a tendency to sink several feet if no vault or outer encasing is used. Therefore, in order to avoid this and the morbid appearance it gives they recommend and require it's use.

County leaders confront Washington officials

Following a meeting in Washington, dissatisfied elected officials in Wayne County this week continued their efforts to get more job funds under the federal emergency employment program.

All 43 mayors and township supervisors in the County were invited to meet with the County Board of Commissioners at 2 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 9, by Board Chairman Robert E. FitzPatrick. The meeting was to be held in the City-County Building Auditorium.

Meanwhile, U.S. Rep. William D. Ford, Taylor Democrat, asked that the House Education and Labor Committee, of which he is a member, look into the guidelines set by the Nixon administration for allocation of the emergency employment funds.

FitzPatrick contends the remainder of Wayne County should have received $4½ million, based on the per capita amounts received by other cities and counties.

FitzPatrick and Ford were among those who met in Washington Wednesday, Sept. 1 with Undersecretary of Labor Malcolm Lovell and other Department of Labor officials.

"Lovell conceded that the figures used to distribute the funds may not be accurate," FitzPatrick reported. "He said the Labor Department would be willing to discuss other figures if we can produce them. That is what we intend to do."

Ford, who also attended the meeting, blasted the Department of Labor for restricting locations to localities with populations of at least 75,000. He said this excluded all but 15 of the 1,783 cities and townships in Michigan from receiving direct grants.

Ford said Congress did not intend there to be any population restrictions under the program. He said he was confident that Rep. Carl D. Perkins, Kentucky Democrat and chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee, will honor his request for hearings.

Congressman John D. Dingell, Democrat from Wayne County's 15th District, also attended the Washington meeting, as did aides of the rest of the congressional delegation from the county.

The suburbs were represented by a delegation consisting of Taylor Mayor Richard J. Trolley, Redford Township Supervisor Bill J. Robbins and Sumpter Township supervisor Elmer Parraghi.

FitzPatrick urged the city and township officials to use every resource at their disposal to pinpoint the percentage of unemployment among their residents.

He said the county has asked for a detailed check of the records in all the district offices of the Michigan Employment Security Commission to ascertain the place of residence of all the unemployed on the MESCOM roles.

"The labor department still holds $250 million for distribution, at the discretion of the Secretary of Labor. We intend to prove that we were short-changed in the first round and demand our equity in the next round."

FitzPatrick said Trolley indicated he would wait until Thursday's meeting with the Board of Commissioners before deciding whether to go through with his earlier threat to seek a court order enjoining distribution of the funds in Michigan until the allocations are reviewed.

Nomads visit Mexico

Members of the Nomads, a flying club based at Detroit Metropolitan Airport, just returned from Mexico.

Among the passengers were Mr. and Mrs. Larry O. Boelter and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Copland, all of Belleville. Copland was flight officer on the trip.

The club members strolled the wide avenues of Mexico City, then visited the historic pyramids, the University of Mexico, Chapultepec Park, and the Floating Gardens. They also went to Acapulco to enjoy the water sports and the relaxing environment of Pacific Ocean vacation spot.

Trip director Joseph Benich of Warren reported that the Nomads are pleased with the performance of their new Lockheed Electra airplane.

Blood program seeks volunteers

A one week drive aimed at recruiting 510 Blood Program volunteers was announced today by the Southeastern Michigan Chapter, American National Red Cross. The recruitment drive, slated to begin Sept. 20, will cover the entire tri-county area.

Mrs. Elden Biery of Northville will be chairman of the drive in the northwest Wayne County area.

Mrs. Biery pointed out that there is a need for 72 Red Cross Blood Program volunteers in the northwest Wayne County area alone. "However," she said, "our total volunteer needs in the county, for all Red Cross programs, currently stands at 102 persons."

She added that the Red Cross Blood Program offers a wide variety of activities for volunteers willing to give one day a week to community service. "Volunteers working on bloodmobiles find themselves registering blood donors, taking temperatures and serving refreshments to donors in the canteen," she said.

She stressed the fact that these volunteers perform all the non-medical duties at the bloodmobile site. Bloodmobile volunteers are assigned to mobile locations whether at Red Cross facilities, fraternal organizations or at industrial sites. She said volunteers are assigned primarily to bloodmobiles in their local communities.

"Volunteers are needed on an individual basis or in a team, she continued. Although the team concept is relatively new, it has proven to be quite successful." In the Blood Program, she said, the team is made up entirely of club or church group members who are willing to totally staff a particular bloodmobile operation.

All work, again other than what is done by the medical staff, is done by team members. "Such work is valuable to the Red Cross and allows group members to work together," she said.

Liquor license debate goes on

(Continued from Page 1) Ramada should get a license. They are going to contribute a lot to our community. They got a big thing going. It would be very foolish for us to deny the license. I am for the little people too, but at least one of the six licenses I feel should go to Ramada."

Councilman James C. Stewart said, "I feel that they are entitled to a license because of the amount of money they will bring into the city with conventions and various groups. Out of the six available Class C licenses, they should, in my opinion, receive one. As a matter of fact, at the last council session when a motion to grant the license to Ramada Inn was made by Councilman Oakley, I supported it."

"I think we should give two of the licenses to citizens and one to another business and put two licenses on the shelf to entice other business to Romulus. I am not in favor of six corner bars," he concluded.

Councilman William M. Oakley said, "I feel that they (Ramada Inn) should definitely have one of the licenses. The city fathers are obligated to make the business venture a success. I think that we owe it to them."

Councilman Oakley's motion to grant the license at the Aug. 24 council meeting was tabled to Sept. 16 by another motion by Councilman Ellis T. Pennington to permit a study of all applicants who had filed requests.

Councilman Brooker R. Edwards said, "I have no comment at this time. I think that we should consider local citizens as well as business. Some of the local applicants have been on the waiting lists as far back as 20 years. I certainly think they should be considered."

Council President Jimmie Raspberry said, "several questions have risen since the last council meeting (Aug. 24). Ramada Inn has applied for a license from another community. Does this deduct from the six allocated to us this year?"

"Isn't this license for eight months. It would be a license for a motel-hotel. I feel that they are entitled to a license, but we should consider others. We have a waiting list since 1961 when we had only two Class C licenses to give. Some have been waiting since 1955."

"What happens here is we have a lot of people who have been waiting. Ramada Inn reminds me of a 'pusher outfit.' When they built, they should have known the license situation. Councilman Oakley made a pitch for the license. Now we have Holiday Inn on this week's agenda. They want a license."

"The Michigan Liquor Control Commission wants us to waive the fees on the transfer of a resort license to our community. Ramada Inn is trying both ways. I will have to consider this very closely."

"We met once in executive session since Aug. 24. The meeting was held to get off 'dead center' and get each other opinions. Some applicants have been asking longer and some are more deserving."

Councilman Ellis T. Pennington said, "I really would like them to get a license but, before I vote, I want to review the other 57 applications. Three so far have indicated that they don't want them. I think that we will come up with an equitable answer. Ramada Inn has got a lot of money tied up here. Holiday Inn wants a license too. I don't have anything against the giving each one of them. I still want to review all applicants very carefully."

Mayor Hyle J. Carmichael said, "My feeling is that they should be issued a license as soon as possible. The benefits to the city are great employment, property taxes, sales taxes and general business coming to the city from conventions and other groups."

"I think that council should extend them the courtesy of a yes or no answer."

Campout concludes summer

A camp-out at Lower Huron Metropolitan Park topped off a busy summer of scouting activity for the 19 scouts of Troop 830 and their leader Scoutmaster Denver Profit.

Highlighting the camp-out was a family night supper and campfire. The boys had full responsibility for planning the ceremonies that included invocation by Norman Guilford, and presentation of awards by Don Smith, assistant scoutmaster. The "friendship fire" was lighted by Mrs. Profit.

Among the summer's activities was a 35-mile canoe trip made by 15 boys down the White River to Muskegon State Park.

Ten scouts qualified for a 17-mile hike down the Potawatomi Trail near Hell. Plans for September include a camping and horseback riding outing to D-Bar-A Scout Ranch at Metamora.

Swimming lessons at South Junior High School in Allen Park, will be resumed for the third year with six boys having earned the life saving merit badge. Eight more have completed the swimming badge. The remaining five will advance from beginners to First Class swimmers.

Wayne County took over police protection services in Romulus on Sept. 1. The five Romulus officers have transferred to the Road Patrol Division of the sheriff's department under terms of a five-year law enforcement contract awarded the sheriff's department by Romulus.

Another body found dumped in Romulus

The body of a Negro man found in the trunk of a car in the parking lot at Detroit Metropolitan Airport remained unidentified today.

An autopsy is planned to determine the cause of death. The decomposed body was found in rags and tied with rope, with an electrical cord around the man's neck.

It was discovered Monday after passersby noted strong odor coming from the parked car.

Inspector Richard Page, of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department, said deputies checking the airport's east parking lot found the body in the trunk of a 1971 green Cadillac El Dorado. The car's license plate was checked, but police are withholding the name of the owner.

Page said the lot is used by travelers who expect to be out-of-town for several weeks. Cars in the lot are checked every ten days by airport officials and tagged.

According to Page, the last check was made Aug. 27. The couple, Sandra McKesson, 24, and Michael William Packer, 20, was found gagged with their hands tied behind their backs and shot in the head by a small caliber gun.

Packer was clad in a brown undershirt and pajama bottoms with slippers on his feet. Miss McKesson was dressed in a pink blouse and blue jeans.

The bodies were discovered by Donald Motly of Dearborn, an employee of the Wayne County Road Commission. He spotted the bodies about 30 feet off Inkster Road as he drove by in a road commission truck about 10 a.m.

The Wayne County Medical examiner's office indicated the couple had been dead for some 6-8 hours prior to their discovery.

The unidentified body was discovered by Michael Gunther of 41382 Edison Lake Rd. as he was boating. The body was about 10 feet from the shoreline, along which runs Huron River Drive.

The body, attired in a blue pullover and brown trousers and having a rag tied around the neck, was that of a black man in his 30's, 5-feet-8 inches tall, with a medium build.

Youth baseball meeting slated

A general membership meeting of the Romulus Youth Baseball Association will be held at 9 p.m. next Wednesday at the Romulus Municipal Building, Doug Baum, association president, announced.

Bids to be taken on project

The state Highway Department has announced that bids on 22 projects totaling an estimated $13.6 million be taken on Wednesday, Sept. 15 in Lansing.

Among the projects is one involving three-tenths of a mile of widening on Gibraltar Road in Flat Rock.

The work includes construction of grading and drainage structures, curb and construction of a culvert.

The project cost is estimated at $280,000 and the completion date set for June of 1972.

Newspapers cherish people's right to know

The daily newspaper, especially one which covers suburban communities, is a prime target for criticism.

Since it is the "voice of the people" and cherishes the people's "right to know," the smaller daily paper is more easily within the reach of personal criticism.

The people of suburbia seem to be more interested in what their neighbors are doing than are the people living in the huge cities. The smaller daily newspaper attempts to keep these neighbors informed about city functions, school activities, organizational meetings, church news, local sports and club activities.

The paper's first concern is local news. Stories of county, state and national news that have some effect on local citizens comes next. But ... news is not always good and unfortunately, much of today's news leans to the bad side.

Newspapers must publish the good with the bad in order to communicate fully with all the people. Police reports, ambulance calls and accidents of various kinds are all a part of reporting the news to the people.

Newspapers attempt to report all the news. Some items will occasionally be missed, some may appear to be "overplayed" ... depending upon which side the reader is on.

It seems that more people want to "read it all," especially the good, when it affects them, and the bad when it affects someone else.

Publishers and editors are fairly normal human beings ... subject to human errors. As with all professions, they attempt to do the best job possible. Readers do not always agree with these publishers or editors. Nor do they always agree with doctors, lawyers, mechanics or police officers ... but each attempts to do his job as best he knows how.

People tend to look upon their newspaper as a public utility. It is not. A newspaper is in business to make a profit. Most of the income is derived from the advertisers who utilize the pages to tell the readers about the products or services they sell.

Some advertising may cause an adverse reaction to the reader ... some news may do the same.

A newspaper should be accepted for its over-all performance for the community, just as people should accept the police department, the city council, the electric company and the Chamber of Commerce.

School aid in House; ADC stalled

By EDWARD E. MAHALAK, State Representative, 38th District

Legislative action is centered on the two biggest items in the state budget, social services and school aid.

A record school aid bill has been passed by the Senate and sent to the House where a stalemate has delayed passage of the social services bill.

One of the central reasons for delay on the social services measure has been repeated attempts to cut back on payments to Aid to Dependent Children (ADC).

These attempts are being opposed by those who point out that ADC funds are necessary to hold families together and that the alternatives can be much more costly.

For instance, if the mother walks away from her children because she cannot bear the burden, the children are put in foster homes at much greater cost to the public. If the child becomes delinquent and is sent to a training school, public costs are multiplied many times. However, ADC is only part of the social services budget. There is more spent for other items than there is for ADC.

This budget also covers the huge Medicaid program, as well as aid to the aged, blind and disabled. It pays the foster homes for neglected and abandoned children. It provides funds for the Office of Youth Services, the Boys' and Girls' Training Schools, juvenile court offices and for aftercare and rehabilitation of youths released from institutions. It also provides for the operation of the State Housing Authority.

The school aid bill passed in the Senate totals $1,052,958,000, a record amount. Last fiscal year the figure was $940,212,000. Biggest increases in the Senate-approved bill are in the school aid formula, which is primarily for operating local schools and paying teacher salaries. That item comes to $689,109,000.

The measure also contains $199 million as the state share of teacher retirement programs, $55 million for special education, $33 million for transportation and $25 million for compensatory education.

It remains difficult to tell at the present time what effect the President's wage-price freeze will have on the state budget. It is hoped, of course, that the Administration's economic program will stimulate employment in Michigan.

The effect on state revenues could be good or bad, depending on whether the number of persons employed offsets losses of wage increases. Federal actions could have an effect on a number of state programs which use federal funds.

It might be necessary, for instance, to void proposed improvements in standards for Aid to Dependent Children, as outlined in the social services budget bill, if federal funds are not available to cover the federal share of those improvements.

In the area of state employment, the freeze will mean suspension of automatic step increases in pay. It is estimated that this will affect about half of the state's 48,000 employees. The suspension will remain in effect as long as the freeze continues.

Meanwhile, the State Insurance Bureau has ordered insurance companies to refund any rate increases imposed on policy holders after Aug. 14, the effective date of the price-wage freeze. The Bureau also announced it will accept no applications for rate increases until the freeze is lifted.

The movement of non-budget bills has been slowed as the House concentrates on its appropriations measures, but there has been action on several items.

The House gave overwhelming approval to one of its bills which would permit veterans to apply for position with police and fire departments to age 35 despite any lower local age restrictions.

There also was approval for a bill which would allow the issuance of motorcycle learner's permits for 16-year-olds.

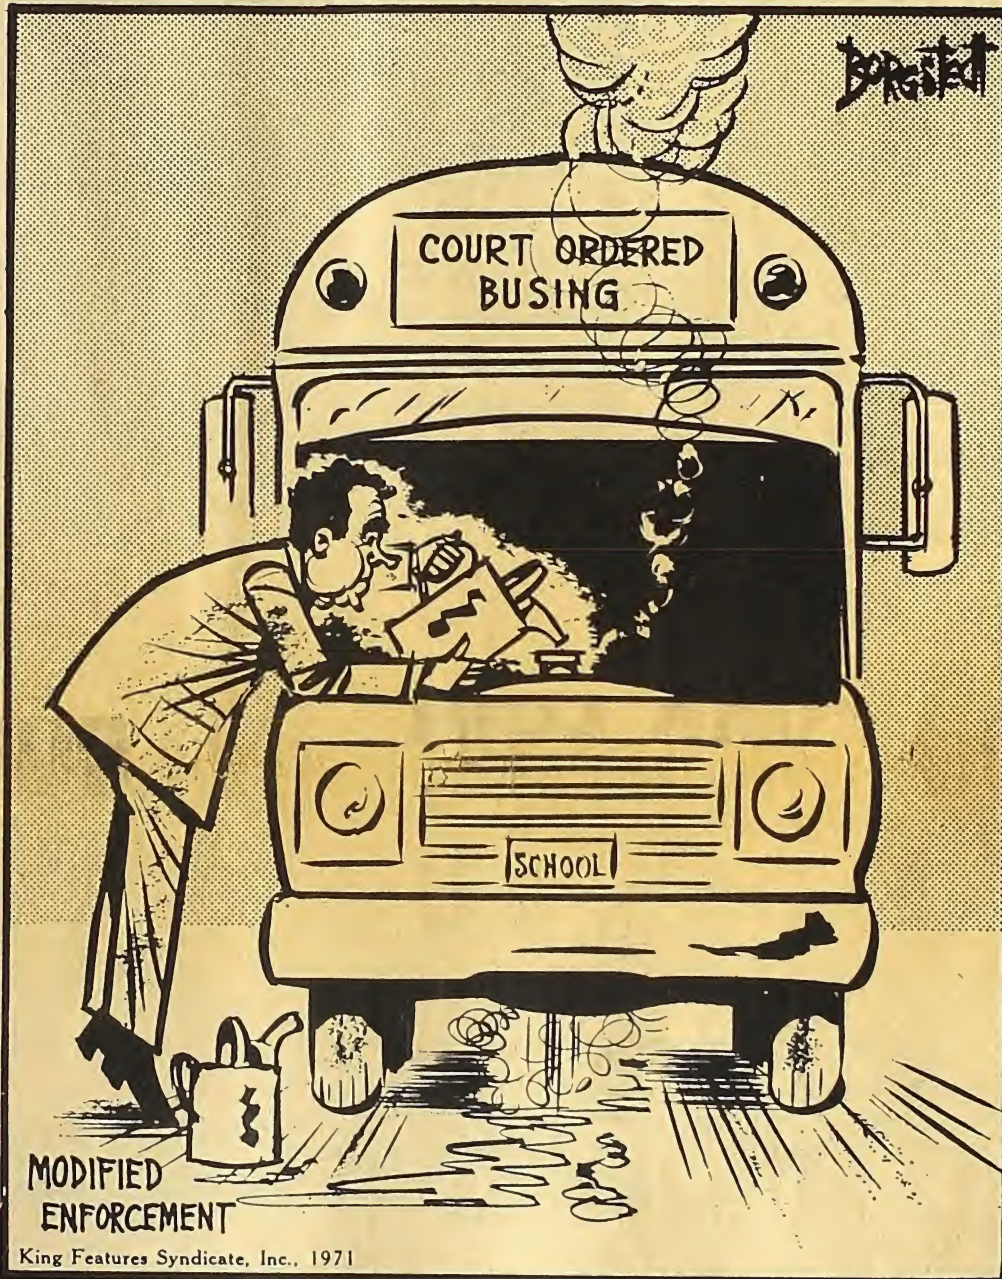

Two other bills affect district courts. One of them increases the jurisdiction of district courts in the area of small claims. The other increases the population figure in cities where district courts are required to sit.

Another bill would change the procedure for administrative rules to become effective.

Defeated in the House was a proposal which would permit courts to determine issues pertaining to a driver's refusal to take chemical tests for drunk driving.

The House also approved two Senate bills. One would allow an application fee for accountants' examination while the other transfers a local armory to the federal government.

Trying to Cool It

Lansing report

Politicians walk together in defeat

Republicans and Democrats marched arm in arm off the tallest building in town with the defeat of the ballot proposal for property tax relief.

They took Gov. Milliken along. At the end, Republicans rebuffed Milliken and he blasted Democrats. Democratic State Chairman James McNeely ended his fruitless search for votes by attacking Republicans.

Democrats lost their gamble that Republicans would go for a combined property tax relief proposal, which they and Milliken wanted, with a lifting of the ban on a graduated income tax, which the Democrats wanted.

Milliken and the Republicans lost their property tax relief proposal. And the division between Milliken and his party in the legislature grew wider.

More importantly, the people of Michigan lost at least a year in getting tax relief.

The House passed the merged proposal, 76-31, but only 22 Republicans backed the compromise plan that Milliken supported only to get it passed. Without the agreement, there was no hope.

And Rep. Roy L. Spencer (R-Attica), minority floor leader, was the only titled Republican leader to go with Milliken's compromise.

Rep. Clifford H. Smart (R-Walled Lake), House minority leader, voted against it. What happened perhaps was best described by Rep. Stanley M. Powell (R-Ionia).

By DON HOENSHELL

"I'm too old to change 180 degrees overnight."

Republicans have traditionally opposed the income tax and the switch was too much of a mind-blower.

Milliken was angry when the Senate Republican leadership issued the death certificate for the proposal, but he blamed "legislators" rather than he was caught attacking his own party.

McNeely had worked hard trying to get the Senate voters to ratify the House action and place the joint issues before the voters Nov. 7.

At one point, McNeely said the Senate Democrats who declined to support it should get out of the party.

Now the whole question of property tax relief has taken three new directions—at least two of which will lead to a major political battle.

Milliken has pledged to lead a petition campaign to place property tax relief—only—on the November, 1972 ballot. Democrats are cranking up machinery to put their own idea before voters.

And Reps. Roy Smith (R-Ypsilanti), Loren Anderson (R-Pontiac) and Thomas G. Sharpe (R-Howell) want to go to court to get a ruling for Michigan that the property tax is unconstitutional, using the recent California decision as precedent.

The rhetoric is bitter. "I will work with the people to succeed where the legislature failed," said Milliken.

"By their Neanderthal tactics in the Senate, Republicans are forcing us as Democrats to serious consideration of two alternatives: a court suit or petition drive," said McNeely. McNeely's attack on Republicans brought an echoing blast from Republican State Chairman William F. McLaughlin:

"It was a smokescreen to obscure the fact that Senate Democrats were unable to agree among themselves on an approach."

Rep. J. Robert Traxler (D-Bay City) said:

"While the Republican party has talked of real property tax relief, it has failed to address itself to how the necessary revenue would be raised to replace the lost property tax revenue."

The fight is just starting among the political people to recoup their losses in Lansing and the real losers are still to be heard.

They are the people.

Romulus Council is funnier than monkeys

To the editor:

Is there anything more entertaining than a barrel of monkey's? I would venture to say — The Romulus City Council in action is far more entertaining than any dozen barrels.

To explain a council meeting is next to impossible. You have to see and hear it to believe it.

Would it be permissible for a lowly citizen to request that Mr. Raspberry, Council President, check back in the tape file for the tape of the first council meeting after Romulus became a city?

I am sure it would refresh his memory regarding the way he would chair the council meeting. I believe it was something like this:

"I will chair this council by the Robert's Rules of Order and vote only when there is a tie!." Mr. Raspberry's intentions were good but his interpretation is something else.

I've looked over the Robert's Rules of Order and the meaning that I got was that the chairman was to keep a meeting in order and the chairman should not be whispering or causing any distinction when the floor has been given to a member of the council.

It isn't very often you hear of a situation where four men can put a four million dollar investor on his knees to beg for a liquor license, which he needs to officially open a business that would literally bring millions of dollars into the city.

Here is a four million dollars investor in our city, who has already paid the city at least $150,000 and will hire citizens of Romulus, at a stand still. There was a motion made and supported to award the license to the Ramada Inn but before a vote was taken another motion was made to table the request.

Action like this is not a very good inducement to bring other investors into Romulus.

Where else, but in America, is it possible for a council chairman not only to have an official place on the agenda but is also able to expound for fifteen to twenty minutes on every motion that comes before the Council.

Let me say again, you have got to see it to believe it. Who knows?

You may read in the local paper that there are bids out for the Pop Corn Concession to be sold at this three ring circus.

Returning visitor finds town 'shabby'

To the editor:

I thought you might be interested in an opinion of a former resident of Belleville who recently returned for a visit.

While walking up and down Main Street, I noticed that the general appearance, streets, alleys, parking lots, a bit shabby and littered with debris.

Another common complaint of many people I have talked with, not only in the city of Belleville but in other areas, is that of cartons in the isles of stores which prevent one from reaching merchandise and it also makes it difficult to move through the isles.

The general appearance of the city could be improved by a few hanging flower baskets or planters.

Although I am no longer a permanent resident of Belleville, I still would like to be proud of my home town.

New challenge ahead

Tigers buckle down

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

All-Area tackle Keith Simons is back to lead Belleville and so is All-Suburban 6 Conference safety Tony Ogletree, but sophomore Coach Keith Emerson will need more manpower in order to compete in an expanded conference that has opened its doors to the likes of Dearborn and Edsel Ford.

The Tigers compiled a dismal 2-7 over-all record, and they had one of the best running backs in the area in Garrade Pettus, who is lost through graduation.

Finding a replacement for Pettus, an athlete who could move fast and who was among the leading high jumpers in the nation, (he cleared 6 feet, 8 3/4 inches this year) isn't going to be easy for Emerson, who is well known for the teams he coached at Dearborn Heights Robichaud.

Emerson remains optimistic, however.

Enterprise-Roman Sports

Wednesday, September 8, 1971

"We got to improve over the previous year," he said. "We have a more positive attitude, and I am positive these boys are going to play some exciting football."

Emerson pointed out that his year long weightlifting program appears to have paid off in huge dividends.

"Our attitude towards work has changed, that's one of the reasons why I am optimistic," Emerson added.

There are several other reasons - he has a few other seasoned players returning to the lineup including Gary Krajewski, John Myers, John Alford, Mike Dansard and Terry Pate.

Last year's veteran quarterback Mike Garland is also back, and he could provide the necessary leadership to lift the Tigers from the depths of the old league near the top of the new one.

Belleville's only real claim to grid glory last year was an impressive 28-6 victory over Wayne Memorial, which went on to knock off No. 6 ranked Class A power, Ypsilanti. (Wayne finished the year with a 7-2 record and a third of the last Sauk Trail Conference championship.)

Belleville started its skid when it dropped a 14-12 decision to Robichaud in its second contest. The Tigers other victory in '70 was a 14-6 triumph over league rival, Livonia Bentley.

Emerson, who is a strict disciplinarian, believes in working his kids hard. And eventually he'll get results.

But as it stands now, the Tigers lack the depth to compete in a league which also includes Trenton, Redford Union, Allen Park, Bentley, Plymouth, along with newcomers - Dearborn and Edsel Ford.

THE AWESOME TIGER '8' - Geared for action are Belleville's Curt Grajkowski (88), John Alford (60), John Myers (56), Gary Krajewski (65), Keith Simons (72), Tony Ogletree (34), Mike Garland (12), Mike Dansard (38) who will get their first taste of action on Friday, Sept. 17 when they clash with nonleague rival, Bedford-Temperance in an away game (8 p.m.). The Tigers, under second year head coach Keith Emerson, will also meet two new rivals, Dearborn and Edsel Ford, in the expanded Suburban Six, now Eight, Conference.

Injuries sideline 2 Eagles

Injuries took their toll from Romulus' grid team this week as two players, one with a broken leg, were sidelined.

George Sedlacke, a sophomore guard, broke his leg in one of the practice sessions last week and is out for the duration, while Bruce Strachen, a senior who was eyeing the Split End job, broke his wrist and is out of action indefinitely.

Meanwhile, a threat of a teacher's strike hangs over the school district as rumors are circulated that teachers are displeased with their contractual offers and the "freeze" on wages.

Intra-squad scrimmages this week revealed that the Eagles have improved, but still need some brushing up before their Sept. 17 opening date with nonleague rival, Inkster.

"We got a ways to go before we can say we're ready," said Head Coach George Pratt. "But I must say that we are showing some improvement."

The Eagle coach singled out tackle Daryl Gooden, guard Robin Block and David McBrayer, a transfer student from Cincinnati, Ohio as "standouts in scrimmage and practice."

Lee Smeltzer is in his third year as head football coach at New Boston Huron High School.

In his sophomore year, Smeltzer lifted the Chiefs out of the depths of the Huron Conference caller to a respectable 6-3 over-all record, the best record for the school in nearly two decades.

But Smeltzer is dreaming of championships not yet, however, he is looking forward to improving that record this year.

"It's going to be tough, but we would like to wind up with a 7-2 record," said Smeltzer. "That's our goal and, though the league is going to be much tougher than a year ago, and we have lost a considerable amount of kids, I feel we can reach that goal."

Smeltzer's springboard to his goal is a core of hard-nosed lettermen who "love the game and show it with the work they do on and off the field."

One of those "blue chip" gridders is Chuck Inman, a senior fullback who is the lone holdover from last year's backfield. Inman will have to "lead an otherwise green backfield" says Smeltzer, "if we're going to enjoy this season."

Promising prospects include Maloy Conley who rushed for over 1,000 yards as a reserve halfback; Wayne Kiser, who is being tutored as a halfback, and Ray Lloyd, who also can handle the fullback chores.

Reserve quarterback Mario Garcia is being polished up as this year's starting QB. A junior, Mario has "the arm and the brains to do the job for us," said the Chief mentor.

Other familiar names are Bruce Bullard (center, 5-11, 160), Frank Cameron, (guard-co-captain, 5-10, 170), Ron Thompson, a two year regular who will be shifted to tackle, and Dan Clark, another two year regular (end) who may be switched to the offensive backfield.

Also back with a stripe is 6-2, 175-pound end Jamie Hinojosa.

If the Huron offense is in a rebuilding stage, Smeltzer does appear to have the horses on defense. They include ends Mike Wauer (6-6, 196), Henry Koszykowski (6-2, 180) who will be teamed with Thompson (tackle), Cameron (middle guard), Inman (cornerback), Hinojosa (linebacker) and Clark (linebacker).

With Tecumseh retaining most of the strength that won for it the conference title, it'll be difficult for the Chiefs to win it all - but that won't stop the Chief coach and his charges for from thinking championship this season.

Huron will launch its nine-game schedule on Sept. 17 at Grosse Ile (7:30 p.m.).

Wayne State University's football teams from 1967 through 1970 have intercepted 82 passes, an average of 20.5 per season, and returned seven for scores with at least one each season.

Sports meridian Ticket prices going up

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

The cost of attending high school football games at Belleville High School this season will be going up, folks.

Don't ask about that Presidential "freeze" prohibiting such economic heresy - the hike is a dire necessary which has to provide the adrenalin for the school's athletic programs, according to Harry Hidenfelter, athletic director at the school.

"It's been 25 years since the high school has increased the price of football tickets," said Hidenfelter. "Like everything else, cost of everything, including athletic gear, has gone up tremendously and we are forced to keep pace."

Hidenfelter announced that football tickets to the high school games will cost adults $1.50 as compared to $1 a year ago. High school and junior high school students will have to purchase tickets at the gate for $1, or buy advance tickets for 75 cents.

Does this mean that swimming and basketball tickets will also be hiked?

"I'm afraid so," said Hidenfelter. "As we all know, football and basketball carry most of other sports, financially speaking. We would like to have all sports self-supporting, that is one of our goals, but no high school has yet realized that goal."

Community Support is key

"We need the support of everyone in the community in order to keep all our programs going," said Hidenfelter.

As yet, none of the other area high schools has announced such increases - but the schools are in trouble as evidenced by the recent "happenings" at North Farmington.

When the millage failed in Farmington, school officials warned that sports had to go because of the lack of funds. The community stood by their athletes and raised the money to field teams this fall.

Though this is a temporary solution, it did show that people realize that sports are a must - a way of releasing tensions for student and adult alike.

And when the chips were down the adults came through. "Everyone has to support their local teams if we are to ride the tide of tight money," said Bob Mosley, of Garden City schools. "More and more our athletic programs must become self-supporting because of the budget."

"Sports must make money or face the axe, and the only way to save a program," he said, "is to attend games."

KEY FIGURE - Senior Mike Garland will play a pivotal role in this year's Belleville bid for gridiron respectability. The veteran griddler is back to handle the quarterbacking for the Tigers who slipped to a 2-7 over-all record in last year's campaign. Garland, a versatile athlete, can hit his target on long and short ranges and also is an exceptional good runner.

Peterson's best in golf contest

Jim Peterson's tee shot came to rest just two feet, three inches away from the cup, and he claimed first place honors in the annual Wayne Jaycees' Hole-In-One contest, held last week at Fellow's Creek Golf Club. Peterson's mark stood from the first day of the week long competition.

Peterson was awarded a mini-bike, donated by Wild Bill of the Wayne Party Store, for his effort. The top prize, a 1971 Pinto, donated by Spitler-Demmer Ford, was not awarded since no one was able to card an ace.

Finishing in second place was Al Whited, his ball landed three feet, five inches away from the cup. Bob Weibel finished fourth with a 37" mark and Roy Hurst, last year's champion finished fourth with a distance of four feet, three inches.

John Henderson finished fifth, coming to a rest at 4 feet, six inches and Les Horvath finished sixth with a distance of 5 feet, 1 inch.

Bill McCloud grabbed seventh position coming to a stop just five feet 11 inches away and Fred Miller finished in eighth place with a distance of six feet, three inches.

Harry Long and John Beer finished ninth and tenth respectively. Long finished an even 7 feet away from the cup and Beer came in at 7 feet, 2 inches.

The event is held annually under the sponsorship of the Jaycee chapter from Wayne.

Here is a list of prizes awarded the top 12 finishers: 1. Peterson, mini-bike, donated by Wild Bill's ATV Service); 2. Whited, (deluxe golf bag); 3. Weibel, (bag shag, for retrieving shag balls); 4. Hurst, (an Achushnet putter); 5. Henderson, (18-holes of golf at Fellows Creek).

How they're identified

Duck system explained

The Pointe Mouillee Waterfowlers are hosting their Duck Identification and Duck Hunters "point system" for 1971, for shooting ducks on opening day. It opens Oct. 1 in the Upper Peninsula, and Oct. 6 in the Lower Peninsula.

There will be two nights for the duck hunters to see the slides and film, with James Foote, Pointe Mouillee game biologist, and Robert Huff, the District Game Supervisor, will be on hand to lecture on the slides at Janek's River Road House, on West Jefferson, in Gibraltar.

It is a two hour plus presentation, which will assist waterfowlers in bagging their daily quota of ducks. The first night will be, Thur. Sept. 9, at 7:30 p.m. sharp. The second night will be Sept. 15th, at 7:30 p.m.

The "point system" will be confusing if one misses these lectures at Janek's. There will be at least 100 mounted ducks, which will also help to identify the species of ducks.

Each hunter will have 100 points a day. He can have in possession 200 points. Canvasback and Red Head ducks are 100 points each.

The Black Duck, Wood Duck, Hooded Merganser, and the Hen Mallard, are worth 90 points each. Female Pintails, and Ringed Neck Ducks, and male Mallards are worth 20 points each. All other ducks mergansers included, are worth 10 points each. A hunter can take legally 100 points worth of ducks.

Chief Maciolek reported that support and cooperation being received is beyond his expectations.

Romulus student selected for tour

Joyce Askew, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Moses Askew of Moore Street, Romulus, has been selected to participate in the International Tours Program through the vocal music department of the Blue Lakes Fine Arts Camp, located at Twin Lakes.

A senior student at Romulus high school, Miss Askew attended the summer arts camp through a scholarship awarded by the high school's vocal music department.

The tour, scheduled for next May, will take 28 days, with performances in Germany, Holland, Belgium, and other European countries.

Blue Lakes Fine Arts Camp, an affiliate of the University of Michigan Music School, is a world-wide student exchange program dedicated to creating better understanding and goodwill between the people of all nations through the international language of music, art, drama and dance.

School aid bill passed at House

"School districts in the 13th Senatorial District can expect to receive more state aid than ever before under the bill passed by the Michigan State Senate last week," said State Sen. William Faust (D-13th District).

Faust, a member of the Senate Education Committee, was instrumental in leading the fight to get the state aid bill passed, and defeat an alternative bill sponsored by the Senate Appropriations Committee which would have provided $30 million less than the bill which was adopted.

"The bill endorsed by the Appropriations Committee would have forced a significant reduction in the quality of education offered to school children not only in my district, but throughout the state. It was essential that it be defeated," remarked Faust.

"In addition," Faust stated, "the school aid bill which we passed provides funds totaling over $750,000 for the reorganized school districts or Nankin Mills and Sumpter."

For the third consecutive year, Senator Faust helped pave the way for securing these funds for the Huron, Wayne-Westland, Van Buren and Livonia school districts.

The Senate passed bill has now gone to the House of Representatives for action.

Romulus School District, with Metropolitan Airport located in its boundaries, has been allocated $1,644,225.

The school districts of Huron and Van Buren, which absorbed students from the Sumpter reorganization, will receive $1,228,250 and $2,354,979 respectively.

school children starts this week.

This week, just when you're leaving for work, a lot of little kids will be leaving for their work. Heading for school. And school busses. Some of them, for the first time.

And some of them will be late. Rushing like mad to make up for lost time (just like you do, sometimes). Not always waiting for the green light. Or the crossing guard. Not always looking to see if you're coming, rushing like mad.

So you'll have to do the looking. And drive more cautiously. Because vacation's over for our most treasured and defenseless living creatures. And for you.

If you see a moving school bus, get ready to stop. And, if it stops, you stop. Even if you're not really near it.

Because you never know when some little kid might come from nowhere and dash in front of your car to get to his bus.

Make sure he gets to work on time. Even if it means that you won't. Please.

Fun and action set for Old Car Festival

The emphasis is on fun and action at the Greenfield Village annual Old Car Festival this year. In addition to all the usual activities that have made this event the most outstanding one of its kind in the country visitors will see even more attractions designed to recall the early days of motoring.

As in the past 20 years, the two days of the Festival—Friday and Saturday—will find more than 325 antique automobiles circling the field for the inspection of the judges and the audience in the tough competition for blue ribbons. The judging of these pre-1926 cars for the accuracy and excellence of their restoration is the primary purpose of the Festival, but it is only a part of the wide range of activities planned.

One of the most interesting of these promises to be a demonstration of high wheel bicycle riding. More than 50 members of the Wheelmen, an unusual organization dedicated to the preservation and promotion of these vehicles, will maneuver their authentic 19th century bicycles about the field while the accompanying narration explains their techniques.

Saturday's festivities feature a special competition between the weather men from Detroit's three TV stations. Sonny Eliot, Channel 4, Jerry Hodak, Channel 2 and Jim Smith, Channel 7 will compete in a balloon-spearer contest.

Riding in evenly matched old cars they will attempt to puncture a series of balloons tethered along the track with long spike-tipped poles. The first to cross the finish line with all the balloons broken wins the race.

This year's Old Car Festival marks the return of the famous Canadian Model T Assembly Team. In their unique demonstration, the six-man team completely puts together a Model T Ford chassis from a pile of component parts of the field.

After it's assembled, they gas it up and drive it away, all in less than ten minutes. This year they will be trying to better their own six minute record.

Festival audiences will also see pretty costumed hostesses and be entertained each day by the Tailgate Ramblers, an old-time Dixieland band. Near the grandstand visitors can also watch while a craftsman makes antique wooden automobile wheels and see a display of old auto license plates and an exhibit of unusual antique automobile emblems, motor meters, hub caps and other automobile items.

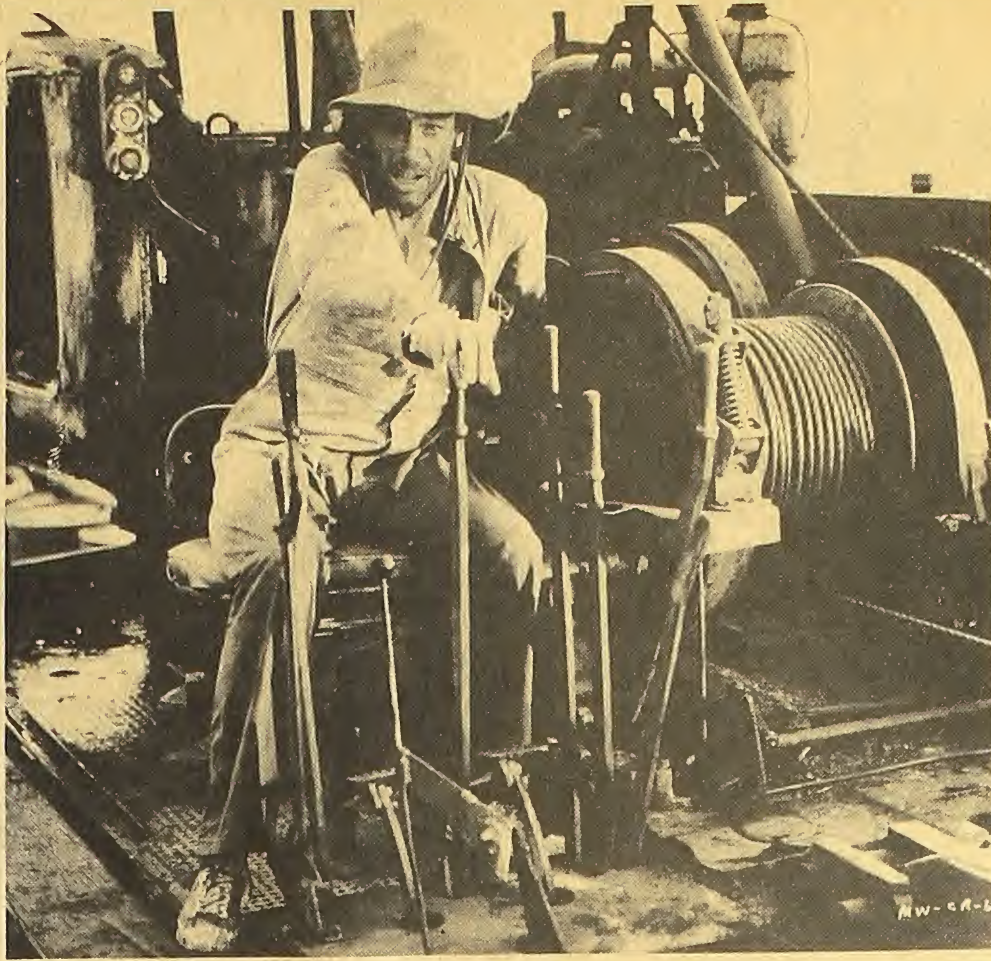

The action begins each day at noon with a parade of the autos through the historic streets of Greenfield Village. The day closes at approximately 5 p.m. with the presentation of the Grand Champion awards.

All the activities of the Old Car Festival are included in the regular Village admission of $2 for adults and $1 for children 6 through 14.

Bob Hope to appear at Fair

Famed entertainer Bob Hope will headline the final weekend of the 1971 Michigan State Fair free entertainment shows, according to E.J. "Jeff" Keirns, manager of the Fair. Hope will appear Saturday and Sunday at the Fair.

"Along with our top flight free entertainment," Keirns added, "The 1971 Michigan State Fair will have bigger and better agriculture exhibits, an exciting and expanded youth program, and one of the finest midways of any fair in the country."

MURPHY'S WAY — Murphy, played by Peter O'Toole manages to operate a crane on board a barge in his attempts to win a victory over a submerged German submarine in Paramount Pictures' "Murphy's War".

'Murphy's War' fails to hold its audience

Paramount Pictures and Dimitri De Gruenwald present a Yates-Deeley Production, "Murphy's War," screenplay by Stirling Silliphant from the novel by Max Catto, directed by Peter Yates, produced by Michael Deeley. Color, panavision. Rated GP. At the Mai Kai with the following cast: Peter O'Toole, Sian Phillips, Philippe Noiret, Horst Janson.

By HOWARD ALLEN
Eagle Movie Critic

There is easily enough footage in "Murphy's War," which runs nearly two hours, for a half-hour television show. What was added was sufficient padding to insulate the cell of anyone who tries to listen too closely to the dialog.

Peter O'Toole is the roistering and obnoxious Murphy, a British seaman aboard a merchant ship in the depths of the Venezuelan jungle, whose boat is sunk by a Nazi submarine in the last days of World War II. Murphy is saved by a Frenchman and transported to a British Quaker hospital where a crusty lady doctor with a clipped British accent and an attitude to match, patches him up.

The Frenchman, Louis Brezan, overexuberantly played by Philippe Noiret, and the spunky Dr. Hayden (Sian Phillips) are unable to convince Murphy that the war is nearly over, so why start a private feud. Murphy resurrects an ancient plane and, with the aid of Brezan, goes out to sink the U-boat. Between O'Toole's muttered brogue, Noiret's heavy French accent, Miss Phillips' stiff English tongue and Horst Janson's German, very little is understandable, but it doesn't matter since the film is tedious enough to discourage all but the most determined from trying to follow.

Most war films offer no great messages and most war films are not imperishable art. At a minimum, they most hold the audience—a war film must have an ongoing tempo, an absorbing pace. Stirling Silliphant, who has demonstrated that he does know a lot about timing in such as "In the Heat of the Night," fails completely here, abetted by director Peter Yates and the cast.

About all one can do is pray for V-E Day.

Carriages, costumes on view

Transportation as dependent upon carriage and horse drawn power is the theme of the "Carriage and Costume Exhibit" currently on display at the Detroit Historical Museum. A wide range of vehicles are shown, ranging from a wicker governess cart to a massive Conestoga Wagon, the oldest vehicle on exhibit.

The Conestoga first appeared around 1750, and was the primary means of moving the hundreds of items needed to a frontier area like Detroit until the railroads took over hauling freight around the mid 19th century. Elegance in travel is depicted by the Clarence Carriage, with its sweeping glass panels and enclosed body. Built for the relatively smooth roads of a city, the Clarence was popular among the very rich, but was also used as a public hack in the period following the American Civil War.

Other examples include a small cart, which was pulled by a goat.

Fall Antique Show-Sale at Light Guard Armory

The past speaks out melodiously and pleasantly in the exhibits of the Detroit Fall Antique Show-Sale in the Light Guard Armory, 4400 East Eight Mile Road, Sept. 22 through 26.

Far from being silent reminders of a bygone era, many of the antiques in the 150-exhibit show are valued for the sounds they produce as well as for their interesting appearance or nostalgic associations.

Wall and mantel clocks, along with tall case clocks (popularly known as grandfather clocks) chime the hour, half-hour or quarter-hour. Spring-wound phonographs send forth tinkling ragtime, syncopated jazz, sentimental ballads, or operatic arias.

Resting in regal state on its velvet-cushioned stand, a genuine "Gem Roller Organ," patented May 1, 1887, stands ready to put forth tunes from a series of perforated metal disks. All it requires to make it perform is diligent application of elbow grease in the form of vigorous cranking.

Betty White, in whose exhibit the roller organ is found also has some of the clocks, as do Pat & Neal Bronsema, who come to the show from Lowell, and Bob and Pat's Antiques of Valparaiso, Indiana.

Phonographs are one of the specialties of Bailey Teeters, who also stocks vintage records to fit many of the early machines.

Emil Pattyn, of Bob and Pat's Antiques, offers a "fix-it-while-you-wait" service on antique clocks and music boxes at the antiques show. Minor repairs or adjustments will be taken care of during the show when faulty clocks or music boxes are brought to him. Major repair jobs will be given an estimate and can be taken to Pattyn's shop for service.

For those who prefer that their antiques or collectibles "don't say anything, just sit there," the show offers every category and every price range in the exhibits which fill two floors of the Light Guard Armory.

Leading antiques dealers from 100 cities in 25 states have garnered choice antiques and collector's items from the four corners of the world to offer here for browsing and buying.

Glass collectors will find antique cut glass, satin glass, cranberry glass, carnival glass, art glass lamp shades, and even the newest pet of collectors, "Depression glass."

Decorators and homemakers will enjoy the fine offerings of furniture, sterling, china, prints, maps, commemorative plates, Oriental rugs, statuary, paintings, picture frames, candle holders, dried floral arrangements in antique containers, steins, prints, maps, primitives, tools, dolls, and jewelry, to name only a beginning.

Details given on laws

A dozen additional bills sent to Governor William M. Milliken by Michigan legislators and signed into law are briefly detailed by State Rep. Edward E. Mahalak (D) of Romulus.

One of them provides for five-year trailer license plates. While this new act will still require a yearly license fee, it will eliminate the annual issuance of plates.

Another new law permits court orders to allow grandparents to visit grandchildren who live with a surviving parent.

Also signed were bills which:

—Extend until December 31, 1973, the exemption on the 7 percent interest rate ceiling on conventional home mortgage loans.

—Permit the State High Department to contract for trunk line maintenance projects costing up to $5,000 without approval of the State Administrative Board.

Permit the State Public Service Commission to issue a vehicle identification other than license plates.

—Change the law for second class school district elections to permit persons elected in April or June to begin their terms July 1 and those elected in odd-year November elections to start their terms on January 1.

—Repeal an 1879 law regarding coal mines.

—Amend the Sales Tax Act's statute of limitations to permit the audit of an entire four-year statutory period.

—make consolidating or merging firms ineligible for a reduction in the annual privilege fee.

—Permit the use of original rather than delinquent tax rolls, thus eliminating the need for transcribing information to delinquent tax rolls.

—Amend the Use Tax Act's statute of limitations to permit the audit of an entire four-year statutory period.

The Legislature has put into motion advanced planning for America's celebration of its 200th birthday in 1976. Although this is five years off, it is felt that plans for Michigan's role in the Bicentenary should start now.

A resolution offered in the House and approved by the Senate establishes a committee of seven representatives and seven senators as a special Committee on America's Bicentenary. This committee will begin preparation, planning, exploring and assembling significant data for the celebration of the nation's 200th birthday and for Michigan's contribution to the bicentennial year.

Fair market value bill introduced by Faust

A bill that would protect home owners from unfair condemnation market values has been introduced in the senate by Senator William Faust, D-Westland.

The Faust bill requires that in any condemnation proceeding the purchase price will be no less than twice the assessed valuation of the property.

"This means," said Faust, "that if a person owns property that is assessed at $10,000 he will receive a minimum of $20,000 for it during a condemnation proceeding."

"The homeowners measure," he added, "is specifically designed to protect people to insure that they will receive a fair market value for their home."

Faust said the bill came about through public meetings with Belleville residents and in conversations with Mayor Royce E. Smith over the proposed expansion of the Willow Run Airport.

"If this expansion comes about," Faust said, "hundreds of home owners in the Belleville area will be affected. Inactment of this bill into law will at least guarantee them and other Michigan residents a fair cash value for their property during a condemnation proceeding."

The senator pointed out that under the Michigan constitution, property assessments must be 50 percent of the market value.

In prior news conferences, Sen. Faust had publicly declared his opposition to the airport expansion.

County reorganization receives comment

A bill introduced recently by Sen Carl D. Pursell (R-Plymouth) to reorganize and restructure county governments earned favorable comment from the majority of some 500 delegates attending the annual convention of the Michigan Association of Counties Aug. 21-25 at Boyne Mountain.

Pursell in outlining his proposal to commissioners, emphasized the provision which calls for appointment or election of a chief administrator responsible for overall operation of county government.

"S.B. 1036 would permit county commissioners to determine the policy of government and to administer their duties and responsibilities through a chief administrator who in turn would direct the many boards, commissions and authorities entrusted with day-to-day operations."

Pursell's bill, which follows closely the recommendations of the Citizens Research Council, is permissive legislation, as opposed to mandatory. It makes optional the hiring of a county manager by the board or the election of an executive officer by the people.

Should the county board feel that neither course is to its liking, it can proceed with the same form of government under which it is currently operating, the Senator noted.

If elected, the executive officer would have veto power over the actions of the commissioners. The veto could be overridden by a two-thirds vote of all commissioners elected and serving, he explained.

In either event, appointment or election, the chief administrator would be responsible for operation of county government except for those areas under the jurisdiction of other elected county officials, Pursell said.

He observed that should the county board decide not to follow either course, his bill would provide for an election through successful petition drives by interested citizens.

Regardless of which option is exercised, he said, some boards, commissions and authorities would be retained.

Also retained would be the elective offices of county commissioner, prosecuting attorney, clerk and register of deeds, treasurer and sheriff.

Pursell stressed that one of the chief streamlining features of his bill would be the combining of the offices of register of deeds and county clerk.

As now drafted, his bill specifies a partisan election if that route is followed. However, the Senator said he was contemplating a change to permit a choice of partisan or non-partisan elections for the office of chief administrator.

Area officials taking gripe to Washington

A delegation of County and suburban officials will go to Washington to demand a bigger share of the emergency employment funds than the $739,800 allocated to Wayne County.

Some 30 officials of cities and townships met with County Board Chairman Robert E. FitzPatrick, Friday, Aug. 27, and voiced their anger over the small allocation.

They represented most of the 38 Wayne County cities and townships which did not receive direct grants in the allocation of emergency employment funds announced this month. Detroit and four other cities -- Dearborn, Dearborn Heights, Livonia and Westland -- received funds.

FitzPatrick told the meeting that the county allocation would create a maximum of only 60 jobs.

Declaring "What have we got to lose?" Taylor Mayor Richard J. Trolley threatened to file a court suit in an effort to force an increase in the allocation. A number of other suburban officials expressed support and said they would join in the suit.

It was generally acknowledged that a suit probably would tie up distribution of emergency employment funds throughout Michigan at least temporarily.

At the urging of FitzPatrick, Trolley and the others agreed to await the outcome of the Washington meeting, scheduled for Wednesday, Sept. 1, before resorting to court action.

FitzPatrick invited the suburban officials to select a delegation of three to join with him and congressmen from the out-county area in the meeting with Department of Labor officials. Those chosen were Mayor Trolley, Redford Township Supervisor Bill J. Robbins and Sumpter Township Supervisor Elmer Parraghi.

Trolley and several others also argued that the county should pass on its entire allocation of $739,800 to the cities and townships to use in adding unemployed persons to their payrolls.

FitzPatrick urged that the communities and the county concentrate instead on a united effort to get more funds, rather than arguing over so small an amount.

At federal insistence, he told the meeting, the county applied for 40 percent of the allocation-enough to fill 24 jobs at the county jail, the Youth Home and in the county parks.

He said he would call a special meeting of the County Board of Commissioners and recommend that the board pass on the remaining $443,980 for use by the cities and townships. He said he would also ask the board whether it wants to join the suburbs in a court class action against the Department of Labor if the meeting in Washington is fruitless.

The special meeting of the Board of Commissioners was scheduled for 2 p.m., Monday (Aug. 30) in the City-County Building auditorium.

FitzPatrick pointed out that the Secretary of Labor still has $150 million in "discretionary" funds which are supposed to be allocated to "high impact" areas of unemployment. He said the purpose of the trip to Washington will be to demand that the inadequate allocation for Wayne County be made up for when the discretionary funds are distributed.

"Based on the amounts received by other cities and counties in Michigan," FitzPatrick declared, "Wayne County should have gotten about $5 million. Then we would not have had any problem. The county could have used half to meet its desperate needs and passed on half to the cities and townships."

FitzPatrick said that Wayne County received only $1.03 per capita, excluding the five cities that received direct grants. This compared with $7.96 per capita for Grand Rapids, "House Republican Leader Gerald Ford's home district," FitzPatrick pointed out. He noted that Macomb county received $6.46 per capita and Oakland County, $3.37 per capita.

Chaffers resigns board

James A. Chaffers, age 29, Washtenaw County's representative on the Board of Commissioners of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority, has resigned from the HCMA Board.

Chaffers has accepted a position as an associate professor of architecture and urban planning at Southern University, Baton Rouge, Louisiana, the school from which he earned his bachelor of arts degree in architecture in 1964.

Earlier this month he received his doctor of architecture degree from the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, the university from which he received his masters degree in architecture in 1969. During the past year he has been an instructor and Woodrow Wilson Fellow for 1970-71 at the University of Michigan.

Chaffers, the first Negro on the HCMA Board, was appointed to the Authority post by the Washtenaw County Board of Commissioners on June 22, 1970. He filled the unexpired term of the late Herbert L. Frisinger.

Our men in service

Private David H. Rayburn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Rayburn, 45841 Harris Rd., Belleville, recently completed a Sergeant Missile Crewman course at the Army Artillery and Missile School, Ft. Sill, Okla.

The eight-week course gives each soldier a working knowledge of the preparation and firing of the Sergeant Missile.

Instruction includes map reading, communications and the construction and maintenance of missiles plus their associated equipment.

WINS AWARD AT FAIR — In 1971 Michigan State Fair Youth Division livestock judgings, a coveted Blue Ribbon has been won by Donald Glanzman, 11, of 24871 Middlebelt, New Boston. His award is for Champion Nubian. This year's State Fair features a greatly expanded program of competitions, exhibits, and entertainment for young people. The first five days of the fair which runs through September 12, is devoted almost exclusively to youth activities.

Rain fails to halt camp-out

Rain did not dampen the spirit of the second annual camping trip of the Romulus Concerned Parents, their children and guests.

Twenty-nine campers, ages seven to 60, spent Aug. 24-26 at Island Lake State Park near Ann Arbor.

Highlights of the camping trip were baseball games, volleyball, swimming, and arts and crafts which included tie-dyeing. All the campers participated in setting up camp, food preparation and clean up.

The Romulus Concerned Parents feel the camping experience helps group members and their families learn to share and work together with their neighbors while enjoying the outdoors.

Receives degree

Miss Carol Bunnell, 12100 Elmview St., Romulus, received a Plan A. Master of Social Work degree from the Smith College School for Social Work, Northampton, Mass., at its commencement Friday, Aug. 27.

The coeducational School offers the program of three summer sessions of academic study on the Smith campus and two winter field work sessions in social work agencies.

The program is designed for students with little or no previous training or employment in the field.

We know growth stock when we see it.

The moment of truth for Charlie, the steer, and for Eric Wyche, who raised him, didn't come in the bull ring. It came in the show ring at the Monroe County Fair. We had more than a casual interest, ourselves, since Eric and his family have been customers at our Belleville office for years.

As a result, we cheered about as loud as anyone when Charlie and 16-year-old Eric walked off with the grand prize. But that's only half the story. Eric was counting on the sale proceeds to help him get to college—an ambition that was otherwise pretty hopeless. With luck, he hoped for as much as $1,000.

Irv Wallace, administrative assistant at our Belleville regional banking center, went to the auction determined that Eric shouldn't be disappointed. As it turned out, Irv was finally outbid, but not until he pushed the sale price to almost three times the $1,000 Eric thought he might get—the highest price for blue ribbon beef, incidentally, in the history of the fair.

Now that we've helped Eric Wyche get a good return on his investment of time and effort, we're going to help him take good care of it, because we're his bank. When NBD is your bank, we'll work just as diligently for you. The bank to see is NBD. National Bank of Detroit.

Romulus undertaking wide drug program

By HENRY CANTIN

Area governmental officials and school administrators have been invited to attend an informative session on area drug use and abuse by Romulus Mayor Hyle J. Carmichael.

The session, calling for an exchange of enforcement and possible treatment ideas and for an united action against drug problems, will be held Wednesday, Sept. 15.

The meeting will be held at Romulus's Municipal Building, 11111 S. Wayne Rd.

Officials both government and school administration from Belleville, Huron, Sumpter and Van Buren Townships as well as Taylor have been requested to attend the meeting. Other communities are expected to attend also, it was stated.

Mayor Carmichael in scheduling the meeting said, "Drug use and abuse among today's youth is becoming a major problem in many of our communities. We must do all we can in an united program of enforcement and in an area-wide educational program to solve the drug problems."

"We hope that at this meeting, in which we will present in an informative manner the initial steps that we have taken here in Romulus, a united plan of action may be formulated."

In early March, Mayor Carmichael appointed members of the Romulus Drug Use and Abuse Committee.

The committee met in March and the Romulus Drug Use and Abuse Council, Inc., was organized and the following officers were elected: Earl J. Lamb, assistant principal at Romulus Senior High School, chairman; Dr. Elmer Goeke of Romulus, vice president; Ronald Makino, treasurer; and Henrietta Ellis, secretary.

The officers then formed three committees. They are: committee to investigate the drug problem in Romulus, a committee to observe some existing drug problems and treatment centers, and a committee on finance.

Committee members have attended drug seminars at Ann Arbor, Madonna College and Albion College.

They have visited Rehab Hope in Ecorse, the Downriver Alliance Center and met with a group of doctors, neurologists, psychiatrists, psychologists, pharmacists and social workers in laying the groundwork for a Romulus program against drug use and abuse.

Meetings were held with Romulus city council and the Romulus Board of Education. The committees have scheduled two eight week classes on drugs for adults through Romulus PTA's.

The Romulus Program has basically a two-fold purpose: First, to give assistance and treatment to those individuals who have become physically and or psychologically dependent on drugs, and also to present an educational program to the students and adults of Romulus.

Some of the objectives of the Romulus Program are: To acquaint the people of Romulus with the effects of drugs when used continuously and or habitually.

To use the school of Romulus and their personnel to teach the students K-12 the use and abuse of drugs.

To use trained personnel to conduct classes through the PTA organizations for adults and non-students.

To make further information on drug use and abuse available to the general public in the school and city libraries.

To make treatment for needy persons available (incognito) at all times.

To have a "hot line" manned 24 hours a day. To have an employment of job placement center for boys and girls 15-17 years of age, adult addicts and returning service men.

And to maintain all patient information in complete confidence.

The Romulus Program has been presented to the Wayne County Mental Health Board.

Operation of all phases of the Romulus Program await a determination by state legislators on the appropriation of funds.

MICHIGAN STATE FAIR

AUG. 27TH - SEPT. 12TH

PROUD EXHIBITOR — In 1971 Michigan State Fair Youth Division livestock judgments, Dale Glanzman, 10, of 24871 Middlebelt, New Boston won a blue Ribbon for his Champion, Alpine Breed. This year's State Fair features a greatly expanded program of competitions, exhibits, and entertainment for young people. The first five days of the Fair which runs through Sept. 12, are devoted almost exclusively to youth activities.

Sabo strong in support of relocation legislation

County Commissioner John N. Sabo, Jr. is urging Wayne County residents to support proposed legislation which would improve assistance for residents forced to move by public projects.

"This legislation could be vitally important to hundreds of families in western Wayne County now and in the future," declared Sabo, Democrat from Taylor who represents District 24 on the County Board of Commissioners.

District 24 encompasses parts of Taylor, Dearborn Heights and Westland, plus all of Wayne, Romulus and Belleville, and Van Buren and Sumpter Townships.

Sabo said the measure, Senate Bill 422, has been bottled up in the Senate Committee on State Affairs since April.

He is one of 17 Wayne County commissioners who signed a petition urging that the bill be reported out by the committee so "the issue can be openly debated and resolved with haste."

"Because of its importance, I urge citizens to contact their State senators and representatives and let them know that the people want this legislation," Sabo stated.

"This bill would be a great help to any families whose property is condemned to make way for public projects," Sabo explained, adding:

"If passed this year, it would help property owners whose land is taken for construction of the I-275 freeway and other projects, such as possible expansion of Willow Run Airport, urban renewal and new schools."

Construction of the I-275 freeway in Wayne County is scheduled to start next year. The north-south freeway will pass through Huron Township.

Romulus, Van Buren, Canton and Plymouth townships, and Livonia.

Sabo said the bill would require all condemning authorities to provide "adequate" relocation assistance, to pay all "reasonable" relocation costs, including the cost of locating replacement housing, and to offer without negotiation the "full fair market value" for residential dwellings. The amount paid would also have to be at least equal to the cost of comparable replacement (Continued on Page B-6)

FOOD SUPERVISOR

Van Buren Public Schools has appointed a new supervisor of food services for the school district. He is David L. Baronion, 33, of 6904 Silvery Lane Dearborn Heights. He succeeds Mrs. Elda Bohl of 44580 Robson Rd., who resigns after 44 years of service with Van Buren Public Schools.

Junior Achievement recruiting in schools

Junior Achievement is going into area high schools Sept. 15 through Oct. 15 to recruit students for the 1971-72 program year.

One hundred one volunteers from business and 200 students will talk to young people about J.A. and will accept applications at that time.

J.A. enables thousands of young people in area communities to learn about the American free enterprise system first-hand through participation in it on a small scale.

The kind of knowledge that secondary school students gain from the J.A. program is especially beneficial to them in light of the new age of majority in Michigan.

In addition to learning money management, organizational and leadership skills and and leadership skills and effective decision making processes, the young person involved in J.A. also gains valuable business experience that is looked upon favorably by industrial personnel directors when they review application blanks.

At the J.A. center nearest their home, students will meet from 7 to 9 on one of four nights (Monday through Friday) when the program starts during the week of October 11.

In the following twenty-eight weeks, groups of about twenty young people will form companies, name them, elect leadership, raise the money it takes to get started, manufacture a product and sell it. At the end of the year they will liquidate their mini-firms and make a return on their stockholders' investments, if their company shows a profit.

In addition to the exposure they get to all facets of business operation, the students can also participate in contests and social events. The local competition can lead to regional and national recognition. There are regional conferences and the National Junior Achievers Conference held in August that interested students can attend.

There is no cost to the students for the program, except for the dollar they pay to become a shareholder in their own company. Junior Achievement is a non-profit organization sponsored by over 5,000 area business firms.

State Police positions available to young men

Young Michigan men interested in State Police careers are advised that recruiting of trooper candidates has reopened in accordance with a new Civil Service announcement. Co. John R. Plants, department director, reported.

Eligible to apply are men 21 to 30 years of age, inclusive, who are U.S. citizens and who have been residents of Michigan at least a year prior to application. They must have a high school education or the equivalent.

Plants emphasized that the State Police Department is an equal opportunity employer and urged young men of all races to apply. A State Police officer career is a challenging and rewarding one, he said.

This enlistment opportunity should be of special interest to veterans of armed services who may qualify for up to $133 monthly in government assistance over a period of 13 months.

Candidates must be at least 5 feet 9 inches tall and weigh at least 150 pounds but no more than 240 with weight in proportion to height and age. They must be in good physical condition and meet certain vision and hearing standards. They must be of good moral character and have no serious arrest record. They may be married or single.

Trooper pay, including time in recruit school, begins at an annual rate of $9,228.96 or $353.60 every two weeks. The current schedule shows pay in the trooper rank climbing to maximums in five years of $12,381.84 annually or $474.40 biweekly. Longevity pay is added annually after six years of service. State Police officers can retire on pensions at half-pay after 25 years of service.

After completing five years of service, troopers become eligible to take promotional examinations. A previous requirement for transfer of new troopers after two years of service has been suspended. Troopers are provided with free uniforms and equipment. Fringe benefits include vacations with pay, paid sick leave, and opportunity to enroll in cost-shared insurance plans.

Interested young men can obtain application blanks and more complete information on trooper careers by contacting their nearest State Police post or by writing to the Michigan Civil Service Department in Lansing.

The examination process for trooper candidates includes a written test, field investigation and appraisal, an oral appraisal at East Lansing, and physical examination at the time of reporting for recruit school.

The State Police have 28 officers throughout the state whose duties include serving as recruit specialists to expedite the processing of candidates.

Phone before digging, utilities ask

The utility companies serving the metropolitan area want people to "ring up before they dig." They have already had success with their program in Oakland and Macomb counties.

So, today they added Wayne County to their cooperative effort aimed at reducing the number of service disruptions caused by unintentional dig-ups of utility lines and cables.

The utilities have established a single telephone number — 647-7344 — for contractors, excavators, or even home owners, to call before they dig. To make it easier to remember, those digits spell out "MISS DIG" on the telephone dial. The utilities and cooperating city and county units want people to ring up "MISS DIG" before they begin digging — whether it's for a major office building or a backyard swimming pool.

Because of the hazards to life and health, inconvenience to customers and the costs of repairing the damages, the utilities and cities have become increasingly concerned over the higher numbers of cables and pipes being cut in construction projects. They hope that "MISS DIG" will help solve the growing problem.

Utility service interruptions have climbed upward as contractors and other diggers cut underground gas, electric, telephone, water and sewer lines. The rise in dig-ups is caused mainly by two factors.

First, business and residential construction projects continue to increase throughout the Detroit metropolitan area. Second, for both environmental and service reasons, utilities in recent years have been placing more and more of their facilities underground.

To help avoid the service disruptions, three cities and three utilities set up the new single telephone number service last November. The cities of Royal Oak, Southfield and Troy joined Consumers Power, Detroit Edison and Michigan Bell Telephone companies in a combined effort to cut down on the dig-ups. They invited all would-be diggers in South Oakland County to "call MISS DIG first."

Michigan Consolidated Gas Company, the cities of Sterling Heights and Warren, and the Oakland County Road Commission joined the group when the service was expanded to include Macomb County.

The results have been "very good" according to Michael G. Digon, division construction coordination supervisor for Consumers Power and executive secretary for the MISS DIG project.

The system is quite simple. Contractors or others are asked to dial MISS DIG (647-7344) at least 24 hours in advance of their planned digging.

A trained representative takes the details from the caller.

The information is then teletyped simultaneously to each of the utilities and governmental units participating in the MISS DIG joint effort.

Should any of the utility, city or county units have any underground service facilities in the planned digging area, it then locates and stakes the underground pipe or cable so that the digger will know its location and will exercise extreme caution in digging if he is unable to avoid the area completely.

Contractors and other diggers have been enthusiastic about the new system, Digon noted, because they now only have to call one number instead of calling each utility, county or city. Besides the inconvenience to utility customers caused by a cable or pipe cut, the diggers have to reimburse the utility or city for repairs to the underground facilities.

Digon stated that residential and commercial utility services are too important to permit interruptions that can be avoided. "Our experience to date with MISS DIG shows us that we can really cut down on these needless service problems," he said.

Similar communication systems have been established by utilities, cities and county units in Flint, Grand Rapids, Jackson and Lansing.

Because of the success of the MISS DIG project, utilities and government units in other states have been taking a look. They have conferred with Digon and other participants to see if the same system can be used in their localities.

'Mistress Lady' a top producer

The Budd's "Mistress Lady", a registered Holstein five-year-old, produced 20,470 lbs. of milk and 822 lbs. of butterfat in 360 days. And Budd's Farm "Du-Olive" a four-year-old, had 24,330 lbs. of milk and 821 lbs. of butterfat in 305 days.

Both are included in the herd tested for Jack R. Budd of 42510 Expressway, Belleville.

These new production figures may be compared to the estimated annual output of 9,388 lbs. (4,366 quarts) of milk and 345 lbs. of butterfat by the average U.S. dairy cow, notes the National Holstein Association.

Production testing is made available through the cooperative efforts of the state and local testing associations and Holstein-Friesian Association of America. Dairymen enrolled in the program pay for the service.

Conservationists set corn roast

The annual Corn Roast sponsored by the Huron Valley Conservation Association will be held on Sunday, Sept. 12.

The event will be held at Elwell Woods, located in Lower Huron Metropolitan Park. The hours will be from noon to 9 p.m. Entrance into the grounds is located at Bemis and Haggerty Roads.

Chairman Jack Begin reports that this year's program promises to be interesting, with 35 different events in which prizes will be awarded to the winners. More family fun will be the theme of this year's corn roast, he said.

Repeated combat favorites will include: the kid's sawdust scramble, the water balloon and the tug of war.

Free corn on the cob, cooked on the spot will be the main feature but that promises to be the start with a choice smorgasbord also available as well as beer and pop, Begin announced.

Livestock show scheduled for late November

Ten U.S. Savings Bonds valued at $1,750 top the awards offered participants in the 1971 4-H Livestock Judging Contest. Scheduled in late November, teams of young judges are being selected in elimination events across the country.

The bonds, provided by Elanco Products Company, a Division of Eli Lilly and Company, Indianapolis, for the third year, recognize the 10 young highest scoring judges at the event to be held on the opening day of the International Live Stock Exposition in Chicago.

The bonds range in value at maturity from $500 for 1st place; $400 for 2nd; $300 for 3rd; $200 for 4th; $100 for 5th, and $50 for 6th through 10th.

The 4-H Livestock Judging Contest is conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service and annually brings more than 120 aspiring young people to the "Windy City."

Teams from about 30 states are expected to judge classes of beef, sheep and swine, and give oral reasons for their placings.

Last year's top team honors went to Minnesota for the second year in a row. The team scored 1,662 points out of 1,800 possible. A North Dakota team tied for first place in points but placed second by having fewer points on oral reasons.

Among other awards to be presented winning 1971 judges at an awards luncheon on Nov. 27 are four wrist-watches donated by Elgin Watch, Elgin National Industries, Inc.

The International Live Stock Exposition, host for the luncheon, also provides trophies to the winning team members.

The awards are arranged and announced by the National 4-H Service Committee.

As of mid-week, the House had met on 112 days and the Senate had met on 105. Although this falls short of a few other years, including 1970 when the House met 128 times and the Senate 120, the present session is far from over. Final adjournment for the year remains indefinite. There was additional work done in August and a return for a fall session of undetermined length.

The primary reason for this year's extended session is the growing number and increasing difficulty of state problems facing the Legislature. The House and Senate have been in session continuously since mid-January, except for an early-session recess to allow for recounts in disputed legislative elections.

DRIVE meet set

The Downriver Association for Retarded Children will hold its regular monthly meeting on Monday, Sept. 13, at the Garfield School in Wyandotte at 8 p.m.

Jamil Kheder, M.D., Director of the Child Appraisal Center at Northville, will be guest speaker. His topic will be "Community Action on Mental Retardation."

All members are urged to attend and bring their friends. The public is invited to all meetings.

Sports complex

The Algerian government will own and operate a new multi-million dollar sports complex and will use it for future international events.

Legislature may have one of longest sessions

The 1971 session of the Legislature appears to be on its way to becoming one of the longest on record, reports State Rep. Edward E. Mahalak (D) Romulus.

As of mid-week, the House had met on 112 days and the Senate had met on 105. Although this falls short of a few other years, including 1970 when the House met 128 times and the Senate 120, the present session is far from over. Final adjournment for the year remains indefinite. There was additional work done in August and a return for a fall session of undetermined length.

The primary reason for this year's extended session is the growing number and increasing difficulty of state problems facing the Legislature. The House and Senate have been in session continuously since mid-January, except for an early-session recess to allow for recounts in disputed legislative elections.

New enforcement measures that would see to it that fathers of children who are now on the welfare rolls under that section of the law described as Aid to Dependent Children are made to meet their financial obligations was under discussion.

There are cases where fathers have been employed at the same company for a period of more than twenty years and are not paying anything at all toward the support of their children.

It was pointed out that there are a number of cases where a divorce was granted some years ago and that child support was in the amount of $10 and as a result the mother would have to seek public assistance to supplement the support of her child. The general public then has to meet the obligation that is rightfully that of the fathers.

In 1965 the welfare load for Aid to Dependent Children was approximately $50 million in the State of Michigan. It has now reached over $400 million for the current fiscal year.

The Attorney General of the State of Michigan should represent the people of Michigan in all cases where a child is placed on the welfare rolls to see to that wherever applicable a father with means is made to support his child and that the child is not a public charge, Mahalak says.

The Michigan Commerce Department's Aeronautics Commission has announced that it will conduct aviation seminars in northern Michigan and the Upper Peninsula in October.

The one-day seminars will be held at Bellaire on October 13 and Escanaba on October 14.

Officials from the Aeronautics Commission, the Commerce Department's Office of Economic Expansion, local government and industry will be on the program at both seminars.

Punt, pass and kick now in eleventh year

Punt, Pass and Kick is a football-youth program in which more than 20,000 Michigan boys enrolled last year.

The program is co-sponsored by Ford dealers across the country and the National Football League. Now entering its 11th year, PP&K has attracted more than 7,000,000 boys — including more than a million last year.

"This fine program teaches physical fitness and sportsmanship and offers the excitement of competition to young Michigan citizens."

stated Gov. Milliken in his recent proclamation on the PP&K program.

"I urge Michigan boys to register for this year's competition, and urge all citizens of Michigan to give special recognition to this outstanding program," he stated.

Registration for the 1971 PP&K competition are being accepted through Sept. 30 at participating Ford dealerships in Michigan.

Participants punt, pass and kick against boys their own age. Any boy aged 8 to 13 is eligible to register. He must be accompanied by one of his parents or his legal guardian. There is no entry fee.

There is no body contact during PP&K competition and no special equipment is needed. Participation doesn't impair a boy's amateur standing.

Scoring is based on distance and accuracy. A boy receives one point for every foot of punting, passing and kicking distance; one point is subtracted for every foot off a center line.

Twelve national finalists, two in each of the six age groups, will compete for the championship during half time of the NFL-AFC Super Bowl game in New Orleans, Jan. 16.

Winners will have their names permanently enshrined in the Pro Football Hall of Fame in Canton, Ohio. Their trophies will be presented by NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

Cindy Burcroff marries

Newlyweds living in Windsor, Ontario

St. Anthony's Catholic Church was reserved August 7 for the double ring ceremony which united Cynthia Ann Burcroff and Donald Harley Deeks in holy matrimony.

Rev. Raymond S. Skoney read the nuptial rite at five thirty in the afternoon with Lester King at the organ to play traditional wedding selections.

Cindy's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jack L. Burcroff of E. Huron River Drive, Belleville. The bridegroom, who made his home in Toronto, Ontario, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harley R. Deeks of Regina, Saskatchewan.

Escorted to the sanctuary by her father, the dark-haired bride was gown in toe-touching silk organza. An overlay of Venise lace on the little fitted bodice extended a quarter way down the arm and then continued into long, full sheer sleeves embellished with lace medallions above the elbow. The slightly-gathered skirt, bordered with matching lace, cascaded from the raised waist into a circular chapel train.

A crescent of Mock orange blossoms with touches of pink held the bride's silk illusion two-tiered veil which drifted to cathedral length as she walked. Her bridal bouquet was in colonial style and contained a cluster of pink roses.

Preceding the bride up the white-carpeted aisle were her sister, Beth, as maid of honor; and her college roommate, Betty Walter from Denver, Colorado.

Both were dressed in floral chiffon gowns with a pale pink and blue print on a black background. The lifted bodices, traced with black satin ribbon, were designed with ruffle-edged scooped necklines and long sleeves ending in ruffles.

THEY TIED their hair back with narrow black satin ribbon and carried petite clusters of lilies of the valley.

Cheri Lynn Engelhardt, eight-year old daughter of the Burcroff's neighbor, Mrs. Barbara Engelhardt, was asked to be flowergirl. Her pale pink batiste frock was in floor-length with shocking pink ribbon forming a sash.

Three and a half year old John Burcroff, youngest of the Dean Burcroff's sons carried out the role of ringbearer at his cousin's wedding. His outfit, reminiscent of the Edwardian era, was a black velvet knicker costume with a white lace shirt, white knee socks and black buckled shoes.

THE CORPS of groomsmen was headed by best man, Donald Heyliger, a college friend from Denver, Colorado. Ushers were the bridegroom's brothers from Regina, Saskatchewan, Gordon and Gregory Deeks.

Mrs. Burcroff selected for her daughter's wedding an oyster, silk-blend dress with a ruffled V-neckline and matching oyster shoes. The bridegroom's mother wore a hot pants formal gown with a black jersey bodice and multi-colored skirt. Both added corsages of cymbidium orchids to their dresses.

Among the 250 guests at the wedding were the bride's grandmothers, Mrs. Fred Burcroff of Romulus and Mrs. Pauline Miller of Detroit, as well as the bridegroom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. M.J. Deeks from Peterboro, Ontario.

The wedding reception and buffet dinner were held on the lawn of the Burcroff home where a pink and white theme was used in decorating. The guest list included travelers from St. John's, Newfoundland; Regina, Saskatchewan; Toronto and Peterboro, Ontario; Denver, Colorado; Edina, Minnesota; Washington, D.C.; Chicago, Illinois; Grand Rapids, and neighboring cities.

ONE OF THE highlights of the day for the young couple was the congratulatory telephone call they received from a former Belleville High exchange student, Janke de Jong, and her husband in the Netherlands.

After honeymooning in Quebec City and Montreal, the newlyweds took up residence in Windsor, Ontario. Both Don and Cindy are 1970 graduates of the University of Michigan.

Honeymoon in Florida

Dillingham-Ostrowski wed at St. Anthony's

In a morning ceremony August 21 at St. Anthony's Catholic Church, Janice M. Ostrowski became the bride of William P. Dillingham. Rev. Charles Borowski officiated the double ring vows before an altar appointed with baskets of white gladiolas and mums.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Ostrowski of 13392 Martinsville Road, Belleville, and Mr. and Mrs. W.E. Dillingham of 11001 Belleville Road, Belleville, are parents of the young couple.

Some 225 guests saw Janice escorted to the sanctuary by her father. Holding a cascade bouquet of white roses and baby's breath, she appeared in a bouffant silhouette of Chantilly lace over satin fashioned with a scalloped scoop neckline and long lace sleeves.

Her cathedral-length mantilla veil, bordered in matching scalloped lace, was attached to a lace bow headpiece.

A PANSY-COLORED gown was worn by the maid of honor, Debbie Vacek of Belleville. Styled in the empire mode, the organdy-over-taffeta frock featured sheer bouffant sleeves dotted with white daisies, the daisy trim being repeated on the high-rise waistline. She wore a matching veil in her hair and carried a colonial nosegay of white daisies and pansy-tinted carnations centered with a single white rose.

Mrs. Jim Martin of Belleville, sister of the bride; Carolyn Dillingham, of Belleville, sister of the bridegroom; and Tina Bevard of Belleville, were bridesmaids with nine-year old Cheryl Martin of Romulus as junior attendant.

Their ensembles were identical to Miss Vacek's except for the color which was lilac rather than pansy.

Sheri Lynn Martin, the three-year old daughter of the Jim Martins, was her aunt's flowergirl dressed in a miniature of the bridal ensemble which had been made by her mother.

Four-year old Michael Orleans, nephew of the bride, was outfitted to resemble the bridegroom for his role as ringbearer.

another of the bride's brothers.

Mrs. Ostrowski chose for her daughter's wedding a pink crepe dress with matching lace coat and pink accessories. Her corsage was comprised of a pink orchid and white rosebuds. Mrs. Dillingham wore a blue ensemble to which she added her white orchid and pink rosebud corsage.

At St. Paul's

Dona Wesley is bride of Earl Allan Polenz

Vases of purple and lavender gladiolas set amid tall candelabras formed the setting August 7 for the ceremony which united Dona Ann Wesley and Earl Allan Polenz in marriage.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church in New Boston was reserved for the seven o'clock nuptials conducted by the Rev. Daniel Richert.

Soloist Mrs. James Sissen of Lincoln Park, accompanied at the organ by Robert Walton of New Boston, sang two numbers: "We've Only Just Begun" and "A Time for Us."

GIVEN IN marriage by her father, who flew in from Birmingham, Alabama for the happy occasion, Dona walked up the aisle to the strains of the "Love Theme from Romeo and Juliet."

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Wesley, formerly of Belleville, the bride chose for her wedding day an A-line organza gown cut in toe-touching length. Venise lace interwoven with satin ribbon formed vertical accents on the high rise-bodice and also cuffed the sheer bishop sleeves above the elbow and again at the wrist. Tiny appliques of daisies banded the high neckline and frosted the sleeves and bodice.

MRS. EARL A. POLENZ

Her chapel-length veil of silk illusion was caught to a Juliet cap made of the same interwoven lace and she carried an old-fashioned bouquet comprised of lavender and pink flowers, roses, stephanotis and baby's breath.

JANICE WESLEY, who was her sister's maid of honor, created her own peasant-style gown of purple floral print. She wore fresh flowers in her hair and carried a white basket filled with purple asters and baby's breath.

Mrs. Tad Boone, the bride's sister from Atlanta, Georgia; Mrs. Dale Tonkavich, a former roommate from Ypsilanti; Susan Schwartz, a sorority sister and former roommate from Detroit; and Mrs. Benjamin Aycock, another sorority sister and former roommate from Trenton, made up the bridal coterie. Their ensembles were identical to the honor attendant's.

Flowergirl in a miniature version of the bridesmaids' frocks was the bride's five-year old sister, Sherri. Ronny Wesley, three, was his sister's ringbearer.

THE BRIDEGROOM, son of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Polenz of 40309 Tyler Road, Belleville, asked his brother, James Polenz of Romulus, to serve as best man. Groomsmen included Brian McNutt of Belleville, cousin of the bridegroom; Tad Boone of Atlanta, Georgia, formerly of Belleville, brother-in-law of the bride; and Rick Nowak and Randy Hall, both of Belleville.

A corsage of double blue mums was pinned to the pale blue sheath which Mrs. Wesley chose for her daughter's wedding. The bridegroom's mother added pink mums to her pink lace sheath.

Some 250 guests gathered for the reception which followed at Roma Hall, Livonia. The newlyweds later departed for a honeymoon at Niagara Falls and Coopers-town, New York and are now at home at 47001 Waters Edge Lane, Belleville.

Both Dona and Earl are Eastern Michigan University graduates, she having affiliated with Sigma Nu Phi Sorority. Both are currently teaching. Dona at Seitz Junior High in Riverview and Earl at Ben Franklin Junior High in Wayne.

SALEM, ORE., STATESMAN: "The new Boeing 747...jet is proving in flight tests to be quieter than its smaller predecessors. This will be welcome news to the people who live around airports. In addition, the planes carry two to three times as many people. This will mean fewer flights to carry the same passenger load, with less jet fuel exhaust. It is extremely unusual these days to get any form of progress with less pollution, but the Boeing 747 will accomplish that."

Edge-Kidwell wed

Honeymoon in Boston follows August vows

A week-long honeymoon in Boston followed the August 7 marriage of Patricia Lynn Kidwell of Romulus and Jon Steven Edge of New Boston.

The pink and white color scheme of the wedding was carried out in the bouquets of gladiolas on the altar, in the flowers filling the isle vases and in the gown worn by the matron of honor.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur T. Kidwell of 12060 Sharon, Romulus, exchanged double ring vows at St. Paul's United Church of Christ at one o'clock in the afternoon. The Rev. William J. Kuhlman presided at the ceremony.

FOR HER wedding day, Pat selected a formal gown of white organza designed with a full skirt and chapel train. The bodice of re-embroidered Alencon lace was outlined with lace and shell pink velvet ribbon. Her full sheer bishop sleeves ended in deep cuffs of Alencon lace and the same ribbon trim.

Her silk illusion veil drifted to mid-back length from a Camelot cap of organza and lace also trimmed in pink. Completing her ensemble was a circular arrangement of white roses, gardenias, stephanotis, and baby's breath.

The bride's only attendant was her close friend, Mrs. Kevin M. Carrico of Romulus. She carried a round bouquet of white daisies, miniature pink carnations and bachelor buttons and wore flowered voile over pink taffeta. Fashioned in the empire mode, the bodice featured a scooped neckline and short puffy sleeves. Her headdress was made of matching material with a wispy pink veil.

THE BRIDEGROOM, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Edge of 35659 Huron River Drive, New Boston, was assisted by his brother, Alan, as best man. Charles Kidwell of Belleville and David Edge of New Boston, brothers of the bride, took charge of seating guests.

Away with summertime 'grubbies'

Summertime means more to some moms than others — more dirt and grass stains, for one thing.

It can be disheartening at times, but fortunately these stains are not as difficult to remove as some people think.

If the fabric is one that can be washed in hot water with chlorine bleach, no special pretreatment is necessary. Just prewash the stained item with a generous amount of laundry detergent. Then soak and wash it in hot water with additional detergent and the recommended amount of chlorine bleach.

Heart forum speakers offer life saving advice

The wife of a nuclear physicist, Mrs. Dianne Batch, a registered dietitian at Riverside Osteopathic Hospital, is uniquely qualified to speak at Belleville's first free public Heart Education forum scheduled for Thursday evenings, Oct. 21, at the high school.

She and her husband and their two children have been "readjusting their lives to reduce or eliminate risk factors as much as possible."

One of the important things to cut is the amount of saturated fats in your diet says Mrs. Batch. "In our home we have eliminated butter and use corn oil instead. We have several rules and the first is to stop frying anything. We use a wide range of seasonings; instead of frying fish we bake or broil it in wine with herbs. We buy the leaner cuts of beef; not only are they better for you but many are cheaper."

The forum, titled "You Are What You Eat," is sponsored by the Southern Wayne County Unit of the Michigan Heart Association and is cosponsored by the Belleville Enterprise. The Association is a United Fund agency.

Mrs. Mary Bowman of Wyandotte and Olin H. Wyman, chairman and member respectively of the Unit's Forum Planning Committee said admission will be by free tickets available from the Unit Heart Information Center at 24365 Van Born Rd., Taylor, or from the office of the Enterprise, 405 Main St., Belleville, 48111.

To help keep their arteries clear of obstructions and clots, said Mrs. Batch of Grosse Ile, the family limits its use of bacon to one pound a month, and ice cream to one half gallon. Husband and wife both quit smoking two years ago; have remained away from the habit with little difficulty. In addition, her husband, Melvin, who works for Atomic Power Development Associates, which operates the Fermi power plant at Monroe, runs two miles on the YMCA track and swims 16 laps.

Mrs. Batch was especially concerned because of her risk factors, habits and medical conditions which increase a person's chances of suffering a heart attack or stroke. "I had them," she says. "I smoked and was overweight and had a high blood level of cholesterol. And I decided it was not worth it." She is reducing slowly but steadily; now often rides her bike 4½ miles to the hospital. "I feel better now," she adds, "and so do we all, the children, Gibson, 11 and Virginia, 6.

The other chief speaker will be William L. Hailer, D.O., Trenton general practitioner who has been making a study of high blood pressure, and has been handling many of these patients these last years. He will discuss hypertension, as it is medically known. It affects 25 million Americans and is the most important single cause of catastrophic stroke. He will show an American Heart Association film, "What Goes Up," which portrays some aspects of high blood pressure.

Dr. William Grillo, Belleville general practitioner, himself recovered from a heart attack in November, 1969, will lead the audience in "Risko" which is neither a game or a diagnosis, but a way of giving people an approximate idea of Risk Factors and what they need to do to have a better chance of averting Heart Attack or Stroke.

'Stag Day' to benefit area retarded children

Once again, Al Dul, owner of the Shady Hollow Golf Course in Romulus, is donating his property for the Order of the Alhambra "Stag Day" to be held Sept. 11.

Dul has closed the course on one day in each of the past eight years to allow Alhambra to hold its Stag Day, which features a day of golf, food and entertainment for $25 per person admission.

All proceeds from the event go to Alhambra's favorite charity, benefitting retarded children.

On the day following the golf event, Alhambra will rent Edgewater Park in Detroit to treat area retarded children and their families to a day at an amusement park.

At the same time, the group will hold its annual picnic at the Northville State Home for those children who are unable to come to the amusement park.

Early next February, the Catholic Fraternal Order is sponsoring a day at the Shrine Circus for more than 4,000 area retarded youngsters.

Besides this, the group sponsors scholarships for those college students studying special education for the retarded.

The 72-member Barcelona Caravan of the Alhambra in Western Wayne County makes $5,000 yearly from the Romulus club owner's donation.

Romulus Mayor Hyle Carmichael is expected to attend this year's event, which will also feature a visit from the Supreme Commander of the Alhambra, Stanley Matuliewicz, and a visit from the Potentate of the Moslem Temple, Robert Potts.

Tickets will be available until Sept. 10 at the Shady Hollow Course, which is located at Wayne and Smith roads in Romulus.

Any area citizens interested in a day's golfing, complete with three meals, drinks and entertainment should contact either Al Dul or his wife, Estelle, at the Shady Hollow Course.

Golfing will be held from 6 a.m. to midnight and a special $500 door prize will be given to the winning ticket holder.

Reunion planned

The 1966 graduating class of Belleville High School is planning a five-year class reunion to be held later this year.

Class reunion organizers are currently attempting to compile addresses and correct names of all members of the class.

Members of the class who have not been contacted regarding the reunion are requested to call or send their name and address to either Mrs. Carolyn (Bunyea) Wiedmayer, 40589 Alden Dr., Belleville, 607-0511, or Mrs. Dawn Springer, 7822 Marlow, Belleville, 697-8706.

The required course is "Real Estate Business II," which offers preparation for the broker's examination and a thorough grounding in the most advanced and up-to-date techniques in selling, renting, trading, financing, appraising, management, development and construction.

Relocation legislation supported

The bill also contains a number of other provisions designed to protect property owners, including owners of multiple dwellings, and other residents against loss as a result of condemnation, Sabo added.

"This program would give owners greater assurance that they are being treated fairly when their property must be taken for a public project," he summed up. "That is why it would be well worth the time it takes to write your state senator and state representative, letting them know that you support Senate Bill 422."

In addition to Sabo, western Wayne County commissioners who signed the petition urging that the measure be released by the Senate committee include: Joseph Cardinal of Dearborn, District 21; James DeSana, Wyandotte, Dist. 23; John Lesinski, Dearborn, Dist. 20; Richard E. Manning, Redford, Dist. 19; John J. McCann, Livonia, Dist. 16; and William G. Suzore, Lincoln Park, Dist. 22. All are Democrats.

The bill was introduced by four Democratic senators from Wayne County — Jack Faxon and Coleman A. Young, both of Detroit; David A. Plawecki, of Dearborn Heights; and Basil W. Brown, of Highland Park.

The Wayne-Romulus Cadet Squadron of the Civil Air Patrol has announced plans for an open house to be held on Wednesday evening, Sept. 15.

The program will begin approximately at 6:45 p.m. and end by 9:30 p.m. The open house will be held at Romulus Junior High School, 11401 Olvie Street in Romulus.

The CAP unit has met at this same building for more than twenty years and maintains permanent facilities there.

Soft drinks will be provided for the teen-agers, while coffee and doughnuts will be on hand for the adults.

Through the cooperation of local school systems, personal invitations to the open house have been distributed to students of junior high school age in Belleville, Romulus, Wayne, Westland, and New Boston.

Invitations have also been extended to members of the Romulus Board of Education, administrative personnel in the Romulus Community Schools, and Mayor Hyle J. Carmichael of Romulus. More than 5,000 invitations for this event have been sent out. Many of the Cadet activities will be demonstrated during the open house. Cadet Second Lieutenant Michael J. Martin, 17, of 7575 Berwick Dr., Westland, will command a Cadet drill team in a five minute demonstration of military drill.

The Wayne-Romulus Cadet Squadron has won the National CAP Drill Competition more than any other CAP unit in the nation, and in the past three years has won the Michigan State championship in the category for female cadets.

Airman Robert Oliver, one of two karate instructors with the squadron, will present a demonstration of this art in partnership with a cadet student. Karate is only one of many optional activities offered to Cadets in the Civil Air Patrol.

A THOUGHT TO REMEMBER

BY HAROLD REDISKE, DIRECTOR

It seems only a few weeks ago, instead of months, most of us were asking others, "What are you going to do on your vacation?" Vacation time was just around the corner. Now the corner has been turned — for most of us.

We hope those of you who vacationed in resort areas ... beaches ... golf courses ... boating, fishing ... inns, hotels and motels ... camps ... family reunions ... in different cities and states had a wonderful time, filled with fun and unforgettable pleasant experiences. And we hope you did not have to unpack the first aid kit! Incidentally, we know (and envied) some who vacationed in the classic exercise of sun bathing right here at home. And now, the summer vacation season is over.

In the Fall, Winter and Spring seasons ahead, we hope you continue to read these thoughts every week. We hope you find a thought now and then to cause you to ask, "What does this mean to me?" We hope you can then ask, "How can I adapt the thought to myself?" We hope what you read here can, in some small way at least, relieve you from worry; give you encouragement, hope and confidence — if and when needed. We hope too that many of you will continue to express your thoughts, pro and con, to us in person, phone or letter. Your response and your thoughts give us encouragement, hope and confidence too ...

Medical records indicate one out of every six American men is sterile...No orthodox Quaker tips his hat to anybody...Original cost of the ingredients in an ordinary lipstick is said to be about two cents... Two out of every three citizens hit by lightning survive...Our language man says the word "monkey" comes from an Italian word meaning "elderly woman."

Four Japanese, wearing goggles and carrying spears, showed up on the beach at Capri. They jumped into the water and came ashore awhile later with a basketful of fish. Onlookers couldn't believe it. And newsmen thereabouts wired the world.

Tomorrow's forecast from the Carroll Righter Institute

General Tendencies: Control impulse to spend more than you can afford; try to economize where it will not injure vital activities to which you are committed. Make whatever repairs you can without too much expense on your property and possessions as well.

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Study your financial situation so that you know exactly where to make changes to your benefit. Business expert you know has little time for you now. Await a better day to see this person.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) Although you feel you are not progressing in personal affairs as you would like to, being forceful with others ruins things. Tomorrow the situation changes. Get busy improving health and appearance.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Safeguard your reputation, otherwise some indiscreet action could cause real trouble you do not deserve, or want. An irate official may criticize, but don't let this bother you. Show you are a stoic.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) Try not to pester friends to help you monetarily since they are pretty much in the same boat. Steer clear of that group meeting where trouble could ensue. Good day for reading.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) Avoid bigwigs who are in the mood to be critical of you today and get busy with own affairs. Make sure you pay bills that are due. Forget work tonight and get busy with entertaining or other social activities.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Although you have excellent ideas, this is not a good day to put them in operation, since you do not have enough information about them. A newcomer can disappoint you now. Stick to the tried and true.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You had better get busy at all that work ahead of you and pay your bills, even though the pressure makes you feel you are a martyr. Then you can relax tomorrow. Happiness with mate in p.m.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Figure out how best to handle those affairs intelligently even though a partner wants own way exclusively. Show tact with those who oppose you. Evening will then be an interesting one from the social standpoint.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Try not to be in such a hassle and hurry that you cause damage to car or property. Plan your time wisely and all is well.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Try not to get involved with undesirable company just because you want to have fun today, or you could pay for it dearly. Stick to the tried and true and do not forget to pay bills you owe. Get to bed at a reasonable hour tonight.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You can certainly get into trouble with family if you insist on going through with some project they dislike. Try to be more reasonable and everything is better for everyone concerned. Take it easy tonight.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Much caution needs to be exercised either in driving or in dealing with others, or you could get into much trouble today. Use tact in communications, also. You are thinking and acting too fast—slow down.

If your child is born today...he or she will be one of those delightful young people who wants to get a very early start at whatever is of a practical nature and wants to make money so quickly that a demanding attitude will be adopted that could cause others to shy away. Otherwise people will find your youngster interesting, so teach while young to reason and to have patience for best results with others. Give enough physical work so that the nature is adequately balanced. Business college would be good.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Isn't always easy for a driver at a distance to tell the difference between an unclothed manikin and a naked woman. Sight of either can be disconcerting. So much so said driver might run afoul a lamppost or a fire hydrant. Particularly at that moment when the bare figure is being wrestled into something fashionable by a window decorator. Such accidents occur. That's why lawmakers at Atlanta, Ga., passed an ordinance requiring shops there to draw the blinds while changing the clothes on lady dummies.

No soldier who has stood in formation minute after minute, or sat on a duffel bag hour after hour, or hung around a port of embarkation day after day, no such soldier will be impressed, I guess. But it's a fact the U.S. Army now has an atomic clock so accurate it won't gain or lose a second in 3,000 years.

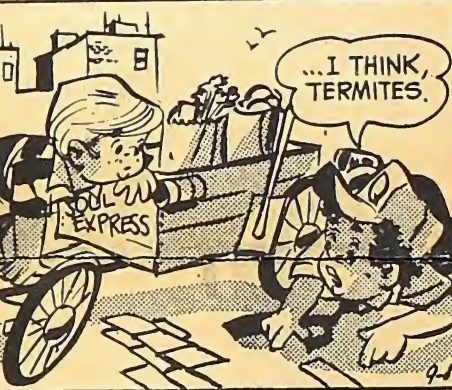

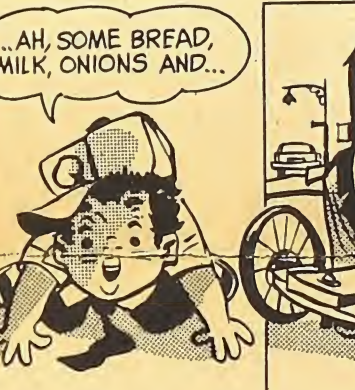

Not June but March is the month when the most couples get married in Britain. That has been reported. Client asks why. The fellow who marries his girlfriend before April 5 there can claim her as a tax dependent for the entire preceding year, that's why.

Lombardi's legacy

By TOM MOORADIAN
Daily Eagle Sports Editor

"A good football team is my No. 1 job and I am keeping that in mind at all times. I cannot make predictions on the team because I don't know what kind of team I'll have.

"But I know this much—you will be proud of the team because I will be proud of the team."

With these words the immortal Vince Lombardi started his coaching professional coaching career with the then hapless Green Bay Packers.

What happened is history. In a span of 10 years the Packers rose from the doormat of the National Football League to two successive Super Bowl championship, leaving in their wake scores of battered rivals.

Lombardi has become a legendary figure on the gridiron. No one man has received the acclaim of so many in a sport that offers super stars with the coming of each season.

Lombardi's greatness lies not because he produced winners—but because he reached out to touch men and understand them.

Football was his means of doing so.

And the end product was respect for life.

A first for our area fans

This is the first—and we hope not our last—attempt to present The Daily Eagle and Associated Newspapers' readers with a complete football edition to help fans capture some of the excitement that is generated on the high school, collegiate and pro gridirons during the 1971 season.

We have tried—and what more can one person say—to give you features about your favorite teams, schedules and sidebars which will help you become a more knowledgeable participant in the action.

Sportswriter Dann Barkume, staffers Trudy Ketelhut, Kay DeBord and veteran cameramen Lothar Konietzko and Dean Lyons all made major contributions.

And without the help and assistance of editor Basil Stevens, the final product would have been impossible.

Then, there were the coaches who gave up their precious time for interviews, and called "time out" for our photographers. Needless to say, without their cooperation, this inaugural attempt would not have become a reality.

So a "thank you" to all of you.

Cheerleaders provide 'spirit to the game'

By TRUDY KETELHUT
Eagle Staff Writer

Each spring, hundreds of hopeful coeds turn out for practice and eventually audition for one of the most prestigious positions in extra-curricular activities—a cheerleader.

Nervously, the most promising of the exuberant females survive the elimination rounds, much like participation in a beauty pageant.

Anxious and determined, they practice stunts—sometimes as much as several months before the actual tryouts. Most cheerleaders are required to perform the cartwheel, round off, splits, and in special cases, the swivel splits.

The cheerleader is the backbone of athletic teams in most high schools, according to one cheerleading coach. They provide support for the team, even when attendance is sparse.

When there's a full house, they really shine.

"The biggest job of a cheerleader is to create a lot of spirit and make a lot of noise to let our boys know we're behind them," explained Wayne Memorial High School's cheerleading sponsor, Miss Chris O'Connor a former cheerleader herself.

Those who do survive the elimination rounds and finally make it to the coveted position are devoted to their activity, Miss O'Connor stressed.

They practice several times a week during the school year and throughout the summer to be in perfect form for that first fall game.

Often nowadays, cheerleaders attend summer workshops to polish up their routines and pick up a few pointers on their performance from other squads, sponsors and former cheerleaders.

A girl's school record—attendance and grades—are considered in addition to talent during tryouts, Miss O'Connor said.

She added that most of those who become cheerleaders are good students, innovative and enthusiastic. "You'll find they are active in other (Continued on Page 16)

What they say:

KEITH EMERSON
Belleville High

At Belleville we have survived our inaugural year and look toward improvement with many things that we expect and want becoming part of the program.

I feel we are starting to reach the crossroads in our program and hope we will make the proper turn on the road to becoming a winner.

We have improved from last year with a much more positive attitude towards hard work, being coachable and being dedicated. We feel we have to have these intangibles to be a winner.

We return eight lettermen from last year's team and many will be playing both ways.

Lettermen are John Alford (guard), Mike Dansard (halfback), Mike Dansard (quarterback), Gary Krajewski (guard), John Myers (guard), Tony Ogletree (fullback), who was on the first team Suburban Six Conference as a safety and definitely could be an all-stater if he has another good year. Terry Pate (end) and Keith Simons (tackle).

Our squad doesn't have a lot of depth, but if we can keep from having injuries to key squad members and maintain our present attitude, we should have an opportunity to be a winner in every ball game if we give a supreme effort.

GEORGE PRATT

Hard work, cooperation by everyone, should give Romulus its finest football season since 1962. I feel that we have the material to have the outstanding season we are looking forward to.

'71 Franklin Patriots

Franklin is a title threat

Livonia Franklin has to definitely be considered as a threat to take the Northwest Suburban conference football title as the Patriots, under the watchful eye of head coach, George Lovich, have put together a blend of size and speed that will provide powerful opposition to all comers during the 1971 grid campaign.

Lovich will use his size and speed effectively. Several of his backs have been clocked sub five second 40 yard dashes, with the majority of the team running the 40 yards in less than 5.5 seconds, with a multiple offense that will run from over 15 different sets.

"Our offense is complicated," Lovich admits, "but our kids get used to it and the sets become second nature, we have found that opponents have a hard time figuring out just where the ball is going with so many different set positions to consider."

The defense is strong, yet fast and agile. Though smaller than last year, the front wall still averages around 190 and that is comparable in size to most high school opponents that the Pats will be facing in 1971.

With only a few minor injuries incurred during practice sessions, Lovich is optimistic about the coming year. "We are in a tough league," Lovich said, "but I have to think that we will be a contender. We have some key lettermen returning, with a fine group of experienced players from last year's JV squad and we have the talent to go a long way if everything goes right for us."

Handling the quarterbacking duties once again will be senior standout John Casey. Casey was the number one quarterback last year and autands 5'10" and weighs 156 pounds. Though Casey still has his hands on the job, junior Joe Jinnett has been looking very good in practice and has been pushing Casey for the number one spot. Jinnett stands 5'9" and weighs in at 156.

Tailback Dennis Schick and halfback John Piippo are both back again this year and will add speed, power and experience to the Patriot backfield. Schick, a senior, tips the scales at 198, filling out a 6'1" frame. Piippo, also a senior, shows credentials of 5'9" and 168. Both figure heavily into the Patriot offensive attack.

Mike and Rick Graham will anchor a tough interior line. Both are experienced and Lovich is counting heavily on their talents during the campaign. Mike is a senior who stands 6'3" and weighs in at 196 while brother also a senior Rick stands 6'3" and weighs in at 207. Mike will handle the duties as a center and Rick will see plenty of action from the tackle position.

The Patriots also show depth in the receiving corps. Junior Guy Burke figures heavily in Lovich's plan of attack as a split end. Burke stands 6'0" and weighs in at 163. He is fast and has an excellent pair of hands and Lovich adds that he is a smart player, capable of thinking his way through difficult situations.

Bob Lee and John Wolski round out the Patriots' list of top receivers. Both are seniors and Lee spreads 168 pounds over his 6'0" frame. Wolski stands 5'9", but packs a 170 pound wallop into a compact frame.

Mark Newman and Lee will anchor a defensive backfield that is Franklin's most inexperienced area. Both are seniors and Newman checks in with statistics that read 6'1½" with a 184 pound weight. Chuck Quinn, who saw action on the reserve team as a junior, figures heavily into Franklin's plans and should break into the starting lineup.

Bob Benedict and Randy Taylor will be the keys up front. Taylor, a defensive end, stands 6'1¼" and weighs 182 and is a senior. Benedict, a linebacker and also a senior, stands 5'9" and weighs in at 165.

Lovich's 1971 grid edition has talent and experience in all areas. Combined with speed and size, Franklin could very well wrap up a Northwest Suburban conference football crown in November.

ROCKETRUSH - Westland John Glenn football foes will have to contend with this "fearless foursome" - Bill DeVair (72), Steve Gursky (54), Kim Horton (77) and Frank Higgins (76) when the prep wars begin on Friday.

Area has produced bumper crop of collegiate gridgers

Over the years the area has produced many an outstanding football player for colleges, but in recent years there has been a bumper crop. The 13-area high schools have more than 40 players on rosters across the nation.

One, Frank Nunley, of Belleville made it into the pro ranks and is playing with the San Francisco 49ers and, last season, was one victory away from making it into the Super Bowl.

Nunley, a graduate of Belleville High where he was picked on every area team, including "All-State" went on to star at the University of Michigan.

He is just one of many fine athletes that area coaches have produced.

In the short span of three years Livonia Franklin head coach George Lovich has contributed much to the collegiate scene. No less than 11 of his former players are presently competing on college squads.

They include: Jeff King, (6-foot-1, 190-pounds) all area halfback who is at Northern Michigan; Mike Jinnett, (6-foot-1, 190-pounds) linebacker for the Naval Academy; Jim Craig, (6-foot-3, 240-pounds) All-State tackle, playing for Colorado State; Rob Hollandsworth, (6-foot-3, 208-pounds) at Central Michigan University, defensive end; Pat Nael, (6-foot-0, 208-pounds) defensive tackle at Eastern Michigan University; Chris Lang, 6-foot-2, 200-pounds) defensive halfback at Augustana College).

Also from Franklin are Mark Beltchenko, (5-foot-11, 175-pounds) at Alma College, a linebacker; Jim Griffin, (5-foot-11, 228-pounds) a defensive tackle with Adrian College; Dan Ryskamp, (6-foot-3, 210-pounds) a center at Alma and Mike Lindstrom, (5-foot-11, 210-pounds) a defensive tackle at Ferris.

Belleville High's contribution to the University of Michigan is Richard Mussehl, an All-Area lineman who is trying out for the defensive end slot. He's 6-foot-3 and weighs 205-pounds.

New Boston Huron's George Breaz, also a former all-area candidate, was named as Wayne State University's co-captain this season. The 220-pound, 6-foot-0 linebacker is a senior.

The Chiefs also will be presented on the collegiate scene with Glenn Dregansky, (5-foot-11, 187-pounds) who is a running back at Alma and Jack Garcia, a 6-foot-0, 212-pound tackle at Albion. Bill Maddick is playing for Michigan Tech this season. He's 6-foot-4, 175-pounds.

Garden City West has five of its former players trying to make the grade with collegiate teams. John Maggioncalda, an All-Area middle guard, is at Brown University. He's 6-foot-2, 205-pounds and a freshman. Teammate Ken Stupyra (5-11, 185-pounds) is also a freshman who is trying out for the varsity, eyeing a running back slot at Michigan Tech.

West's Tom Hunt is at Southwest Minnesota State College where the 6-foot-0, 218-pound tackle is a freshman, while John Senn, a sophomore at Michigan Tech, has a good crack at the varsity center position. He's 6-foot-1, 216 pounds).

Jim Garland, a freshman, is a linebacker (6-foot-0, 185-pounds) at Eastern Michigan University. Former cross-town rival, George Bednerek, (6-foot-1, 220-pounds) of Garden City East High fame, is making it at EMU as well as a defensive tackle.

East's Rod Shafer is a freshman quarterback at Wayne State University. Glenn's contributions to the collegiate scene include George Osterhout, (5-foot-10, 176)) who is a sophomore defensive back at EMU, while former teammate David Barrows is working out as a freshman wingback at WSU.

Martin Banks, also a former All-Area gridger, is trying out at the University

Churchill builds with 8 lettermen

Livonia Churchill fielded its first crop of seniors last year, and the Chargers responded by compiling a 2-3-3 over-all record.

It's a new year and Ken Kestner, who is beginning his third season as head coach, plans to better than mark. And he has eight lettermen left over from last year's struggles to help him.

"We have a lot of patch work to do," said Kestner, "but we have a lot of candidates to choose from and I feel that there is plenty of potential on this year's squad."

Though the numbers didn't reach the record-establishing 120 hopefuls who turned out a year ago to try out for the team, Churchill had over 100 out for this year's team.

Among those candidates are a flock of seniors who will be returning to their jobs. Bob Galloway, (6-foot-1, 205-pounds) is a "blue chip tackle who will have to go both ways, while Serge Guillot (5-foot-10, 165-pounds) retains his center post.

Other lettermen retained from last year's squad include Mike Crom, (5-foot-10, 165-pounds) at halfback, Roy Hendrikson, (5-foot-10, 170-pounds) defensive halfback, Kevin Renes (5-foot-11, 195-pounds) at tackle, Jim Reynolds, (5-foot-10, 165-pounds) linebacker and Greg Smith (175-pounds, 5-foot-10), at guard.

Kestner is grooming junior Bob Blaies to handle the quarterback chores and says of his signal-caller, "he's an outstanding ball handler, an adequate passer who can also run with the ball."

If the Chargers have any designs upon the Western Six Conference title, the Churchill coach isn't revealing them. But the Area teams to meet new foes

The collapse of one league, the expansion of two others and the end of St. Mary's of Wayne precipitated realignment of area high school athletic fortunes.

The end of the Sauk Trail was reached in June, and Wayne Memorial, a member of the league, joined the Mid-Wayne. Two other members of that league, Edsel Ford and Dearborn realigned with the expanded Suburban Six (now known as the Suburban "8").

Meanwhile, St. Mary's of Wayne has closed its doors because of financial difficulties and for the first time in nearly a quarter of a century the school will not have a high school.

The new alignment in the Mid-Wayne includes: Garden City East, Wayne Memorial, Dearborn Heights Robichaud, Inkster, Taylor Center, Lutheran West and Dearborn Heights Annapolis.

The Suburban '8' make up is as follows: Belleville, Redford Union, Allen Park, Trenton, Plymouth, Livonia Bentley, Edsel Ford and Dearborn.

Wayne Memorial Zebras face a new challenge - The Mid-Wayne

Zebras eye 2nd title

With the basis for building a new team behind them, Wayne Gorman and his Wayne Memorial Zebras are set to open the 1971 campaign against John Glenn, with hopes of bringing down the title in their new league, the Mid-Wayne. Wayne was a former member of the Sauk Trail conference, but switched over to the Mid-Wayne after last year when the Sauk Trail disbanded. Wayne could improve on a 7-2 record of last year in their new league if some of the holes are patched up in time. Gorman, in his third year as head coach, brought home a third of the Sauk Trail conference title, the first for Wayne in over a decade.

Gorman has a shot at making it two straight, but a few question marks must be solved in order for the Zebras to have another outstanding year.

Mainstay of the offense will be All-Area quarterback candidate, Rick Stevens. Stevens, a senior who stands 6'0" and weighs in at 160 can throw the ball as well as run and is one of the best prep quarterbacks when it comes to running the option.

Experience also runs deep in the offensive backfield where the Zebras will feature a probable starting line-up consisting of running back Harold DuPrie, a junior who stands 5'7" and weighs in at 150, Joe Keister a 5'11" 165 pound senior who will be used as a slotback and Tony LaPere, who will see duty as a running back.

Gorman saw graduation leave vacancies at both tackle slots, tight end and one guard position, and he is faced with the job of rebuilding the front wall that is supposed to let Wayne's potent crew of ball carriers and receivers move the football. Mike Bachus, 5'10" 170 is a holdover at center and will

Sports retort

Football is here

By Dann Barkume

Labor Day is behind us, and with the turning of leaves and falling temperatures come the controlled violence on the gridiron, as sports enthusiasts prepare for yet another four months of madness that will run from now through mid-January with the Super Bowl.

The colleges have already undertaken the 1971 campaign, with the high schools and professionals set to go this weekend.

Arm-chair quarterbacks will once again try to second-guess head coaches, and words like, blitz, screen, draw, reverse, fly clipping will once again be used at dinner tables and taverns around the country.

From the high school level on up, football has not only gained greatly in popularity over the last decade, but also in sophistication.

Not only must the modern football player know how to tackle, block, run and lace on shoulder pads, but he must be a special breed of scientists to figure out the new and complicated offensive and defensive alignments now being thrown at opponents every time a huddle breaks.

This writer hung up the cleats eight years ago, and since that time football has become more than a game. For many, players and fans alike, it has become an occupation, for others it has become a way of life, encompassing every free moment.

Offenses and defenses are constantly changing, attempting to stymie their opponents with new twists to the game. Coaches and players memorize the idiosyncracies of opposing players and spend hours drawing up game plans, trying to come up with a tangible way to out fox the other team.

Football is much more than kickoff and slant plays off tackle. To be up on the game, one must spend a great deal of time, familiarizing himself with formations, plays, rules and the duties of each position.

Football is more than a game, it has become a pastime, gripping the public with an enthusiastic mania that is second to none. Record crowds, millions of television viewers and radio listeners drop everything each weekend in fall and early winter to check on the progress of their favorite high school, college and professional team.

It has become controlled violence, blurring out with speed, strength and finesse, and it's wonderful.

Football 1971 means a whole new year, a whole new outlook, and whole new way of life that lasts for the next four months.

Football 1971 is here.

It has become an American heritage and is gaining in popularity with each new season.

We've waited all summer for this moment. Let's savor it. For a little while anyway!

REMINISCING - Mrs. Paul Jose and son, Rich, flip back the pages of the past that depict the athletic accomplishments of the Joses three sons. Rich is presently playing for Garden City East, where the two other Jose boys competed in football.

A mother's thoughts on sons and football

By KAY DE BORD

Mrs. Paull Jose doesn't consider herself an expert on football, but as the mother of three sons who have, or are playing on a high school team, she is well aware of her role as a "football mother."

Now being a "football mother" doesn't mean she's a mother who nags the coach, belittles the rest of the team or tries to set the training rules for her son.

It means she's a staunch rooter for the team—in this instance, Garden City East High School—and she's to be found at all the games. Last year, even to the point of defying a pneumonia bug to attend the crucial game between city rivals East and Garden City West.

Being a football mother doesn't mean you must worry yourself into a tizzy when your boy is downed during a game. You rely on his physical condition and training to see him through, according to Mrs. Jose.

Irene Jose is a petite woman with golden brown hair and expressive eyes. She has learned to cope with missed meals, sons groggy from fatigue during the football season, and a husband, who equally enthused about football, is too busy to fill her in on the finer points of the game.

She wistfully "wished" that someone, a coach or some other person in football, would enlighten mothers like herself, who would like to follow the games intelligently.

To date, no such expert has come forth, but she'll be in the stands, rooting, when the family comes to watch youngest son, Rich, play defensive halfback for Gary Humphrey's team this season.

The Jose's oldest son, David, also played varsity for the East team, starting a family tradition. Sadly, David was killed in Vietnam where he was serving with the Army.

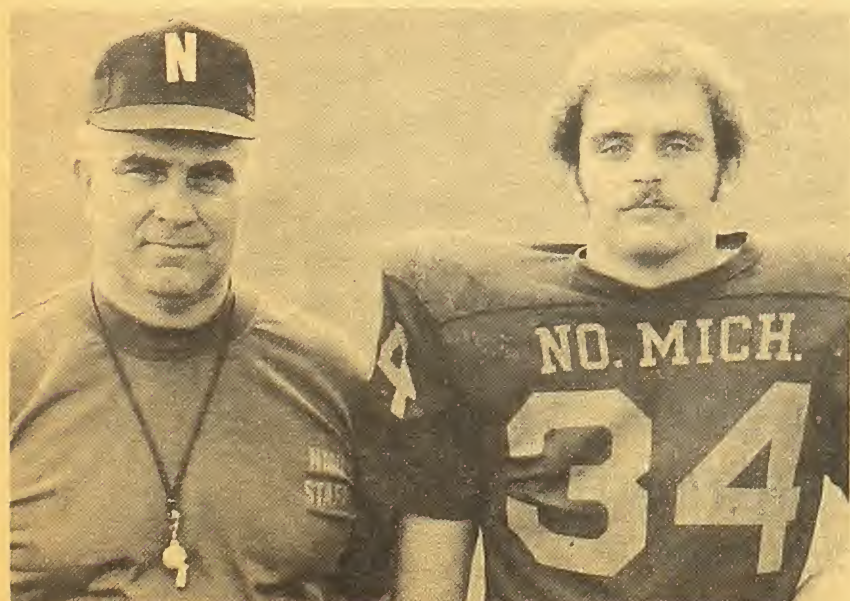

Mike, the second of the Jose sons, not only played football, but was also a wrestler at East High. He is presently serving with Navy.

Now, Rich is having his chance to add to the famioy football laurels.

Realizing that some parents are reluctant to have their sons take part in such contact sports, Irene Jose was asked if she ever had any reservations about her boys playing football.

Her answer was that she would rather have her sons involved in sports during their school years than anchor an almost completely new offensive line. Sam Still, a senior veteran who packs 150 pounds into a 5'9" frame, should hold down one of the end positions quite easily.

Defense was the key to Wayne's title sharing team last season and the Zebra coaching staff has had the unhappy task of replacing eight veterans on the defensive squad. Bruce David 5'10 160, senior linebacker, Keister at safety and Still at one of the halfbacks are the only three returning lettermen with varsity defensive experience.

Gorman admits that it has been a problem. He has some good size, but a lot of his players are inexperienced and Gorman and his staff have been trying to build a defensive unit that will field eight new faces for the first game.

Though inexperience is Wayne's greatest weakness, the Zebras feel that they have enough talent to make a serious challenge for the Mid-Wayne conference football title.

Gorman sees his greatest obstacle in defending champion Garden City East. The Panthers compiled an impressive 8-0-1 record last year and will be out to make it two in a row.

Gorman has brought the Zebras from a dismal past to a title winner in two years and indications point to another successful year, provided the new faces develop as expected and some key players stay away from injuries.

Gorman will key on Stevens with an option type offensive alignment and will use a basic pursuit defense. The '71 edition of the Zebras are big and have adequate speed, but inexperience remains a question mark.

"We will probably be continuing with experimentation right up until the first game," Gorman said.

Panel of Experts ready crystal ball

While gridders "are knocking heads", the Panel of Experts is also brushing up the 'ole crystal ball' in order to provide friend and foe alike with high school football prognostications.

The Panel, a group of scholarly local "experts", has been on the job for the past six years. And this year new faces will appear-and one masked marvel as well, known as Mr. X.

Making their debut on the football panel will be Henry Cantin and Barbara Blass. Miss Blass muscled her way on the basketball panel last season and proved so proficient in picking winners, the panel decided to give her a chance at football.

Cherry Hill Spartans looking up

Spartans must stay healthy

The "unknown quality" in Cherry Hill's bid for improvement upon a 3-4 Tri-River Conference record is "injuries". "What we have is good," points out Cherry Hill Coach Joe LaScola. "We can play with anyone with these boys, but if we are suddenly hit with a rash of injuries we'll lack the depth to close ranks." LaScola, 38, is in his seventh year as the Spartans' head coach. He feels his team has a good shot at the conference title, giving Taylor Kennedy a slight edge over the rest of the league. "This is a balanced league this season," said LaScola. "Anyone could take it and if there is a pre-season favorite I would have to point to Kennedy because they had started a flock of sophomores who'll be back.

Melvindale and Southgate split the title last year. With only four regulars back in the Cherry Hill lineup, one would think that LaScola is anticipating a miracle. But those regulars - Barry Coughenhour (6-foot-0, 180-pound) a junior end; Doug Evans (5-foot-10, 185 pounds) tackle; Rick Henry (6-foot-1, 180-pound) tackle and Wayne Carriveau (6-foot-0, 196-pound) defensive end turned halfback could form the core of a winning ball club.

Evans, a tackle moved to guard, is considered one of the best linemen in the league while Henry, one of the team's co-captains, was also one of the Spartans most consistent players.

The Spartan coach also switched Carriveau from his regular defensive end slot to fullback in hopes of picking up the short gains. Still, the Spartans have an ace-in-the-hole with sophomore Bob Dunsmore who will be calling the plays and slinging the ball. Dunsmore's forte is his running ability and he'll have ample chance to show his notoriety with the option play.

"Because of the lack of experience, we're moving slowly," said LaScola. "We have a bunch of young kids who have a lot of potential."

Among those whom the Cherry Hill coach will have back on the line with letters, but limited experience, are Gary Chevillet, a junior (6-foot-4, 215-pounds) tackle and center Steve Kelley (6-foot-0, 250-pounds). Dave Zafke, who was used on the taxi squad last year, is being groomed for a halfback's berth.

Cherry Hill also received some unexpected help from Divine Child when the Riolo brothers - Joe and Ken - returned from Florida and decided to attend Cherry Hill High School. Both are expected to handle defensive chores in the secondary.

Also battling for guard roles are Rick Yankee (5-foot-8, 180-pounds) and Rick Bostedor (5-foot-9, 155-pounds). Ken Croft is seeking an end position, and Kevin McDonnell is trying to make it as a defensive halfback. The Spartans "will come down to earth" one week after their Sept. 18 opener against Taylor Center. On the 25th Cherry Hill will clash with Southgate and the Spartans should know more about their great expectations. Taylor Center, a nonleague rival, will travel to Cherry Hill for their debut scheduled for 2 p.m.

Mother

(Continued from Page 7) standing on the sidelines. "After all, it means regular hours, good physical condition and hitting the books." The Jose family owns and operates Garden City Sporting Goods, a perfect business for a family with so much involvement in sports on the field. The call of business interrupted their membership in the Garden City East Boosters, founded by Paull Jose, but they hope to resume an active role in the group that backs school sports activities. And if one gets the idea that when Rich graduates, the Jose family will abandon their interest in football, it's a misconception. The youngest member of the Jose family, 10-year-old Pamela, a Lathers School student, firmly intends to be a cheerleader. Of course, with Women's Lib, maybe she'll even get to follow in her brothers' footsteps!

Robichaud to shed Mid-Wayne doormat image in '71

Yauck's goal: build win habit

Establishing a winning habit. That's the goal sophomore Robichaud head coach Bob Yauck has set for himself and his team as the Dearborn Heights high school prepares for its 1971 opener.

"We have a fair chance of winning six games," said Yauck, a former Iowa University star. "And we'll need to get the breaks to win the other three."

Robichaud managed to win only one of its eight contests last year, and this year the Bulldogs will meet a couple of new rivals including Wayne Memorial, a team that could upset Garden City East's plans for a consecutive championship.

Yauck says he "feels that his starting 11 - all veterans of last season's campaign - will be comparable to any of the other teams they'll meet this year."

"Trying to find the depth is our problem, a major concern at present," he says.

The team has selected the trio of James Dillard, Brent Conley and Cesero Medley as captains.

"Our team is probably two of three weeks ahead of last year's pace. We're executing our plays much better and the boys know their assignments, but there is a lot of work ahead if we're going to go anywhere," said Yauck.

Yauck has less than a week to decide which of his two returning quarterbacks — Medley or Conley — will get the nod as starter. The two alternated during the '70 campaign, and it's a toss up at present who'll get the job.

Meanwhile, nine other lettermen have increased their tempo to hold on to their jobs. With a more experienced offense thanks to fullback Willie Smith and tailbacks Art Cooper and Willie Jones, the Bulldogs should be more potent offensively than they were a year ago.

The offensive line is also stabilized with the return of All-Area guard Tim Anderson (5-foot-11, 210 pounds) and tackle Doug Dipzinski (6-foot-1, 195-pounds). Both are seniors. Dillard brothers John and James return at end and a much-improved Jeff Flourney (5 foot-10, 242-pounds), Robichaud has the horses to realize their coach's ambitions.

Sophomore Wesley Jones, a slotback, has exceptional speed and is an outside threat. The question mark to his starting role is "lack of experience."

"Jones is fast and we're going to need his speed to utilize it for outside thrusts," said Yauck. "And if he picks up enough experience quickly, he may be a regular before long."

Other names that may soon become familiar with prep grid fans include that of Richard Johnson, tight end, (6-foot-1, 180), Roland Frederick, split end, (6-foot-3, 165-pounds), Ken Phillips, guard, (6-foot-1, 195-pounds), and Orlando Jacobs, guard, (5-foot-10, 175-pounds).

"We're still in a rebuilding stage," reminds Yauck. "There's no doubt about it, but I can see an improvement over a year ago."

Despite the improvement, there is little doubt that Robichaud's 1971 team isn't ready to take on the likes of Wayne Memorial or Garden City East, two teams that are pre-season favorites to take the title.

The Bulldogs will start their nine-game schedule on Friday, Sept. 17 at 8 p.m., visiting Willow Run for a non-conference test. They'll be at Garden City East the following week for their first Mid-Wayne Conference game. That match also is scheduled for 8 p.m.

STRATEGY SESSION - Bob Yauck, head football coach at Robichaud High School, gives quarterback Brent Conley some pointers on his passing game as the Bulldogs prepare for the 1971 football campaign. Yauck, in his second year as head coach, figures that the Bulldogs will improve on last years dismal finish when they were last in the Mid-Wayne conference.

This could be the 'Year of the Tiger'

18 lettermen bolster Tiger hopes

Garden City West is looking forward to the 1971 grid campaign, and head coach Bob Draheim is optimistic about the coming year. Draheim, entering his third year as the Tiger mentor, has a blend of size and speed, coupled with some experience, and that is a good combination, in Draheim's eyes, to build a football winning team.

The Tigers have produced two consecutive JV championship teams in the last two years, and Draheim now has many of these talented underclassmen in the varsity ranks. The entire team is big, yet agile with adequate speed and Draheim is hoping that the Tigers can pull down at least a share of the Tri-River conference crown.

One thing is certain, West will definitely improve on last year's 3-5-1 record when the team was racked by injuries. "These kids are working hard and they really want to play football," Draheim said, "If a few positions pan out like we hope they will, we will be a contender this year."

Draheim's main forte this year will be a front line averaging nearly 200 pounds, the players are big and they are also agile. Draheim has key personnel returning up front both on the offensive and defensive front wall.

Back for another try is senior center Dennis Rosa. Rosa, (5-foot 11, 197-pounds) will anchor the line with Mike Capra and Dirk Werhane at the guards. They'll provide beef and experience for the Tigers. Capra stands 5'10" and weighs in at 170 and Werhane stands 5'10" and tips the scales at 178.

West is deep in experienced Tackles, boasting three returning lettermen, plus several other strong newcomers. Returning to the tackle positions are Jerry Holmes, a 5'1" senior, Randy Smitt, a 6'1" and 198 and another senior Bob Cowen, who stand 6'1" and tips the scales at 198.

The line will protect what Draheim hopes to be a strong running game, but the Tiger coach also likes to throw the football. "I'm not satisfied unless we throw the ball about 20 times a game," Draheim said.

Dave Wiacek and Mike Lewis are currently battling to see who will handle the quarterbacking honors this year. Both are seniors with Wiacek weighing in at 155 and standing 5'11" and Lewis standing 5'11" and weighing 175. Junior Chuck Glancy is waiting in the wings. Early indications give Wiacek the edge at handling the QB honors.

The majority of the Tigers' 18 returning lettermen are backs and receivers and Draheim is counting heavily on their size, ability and experience.

Heading up the list are co-captains, Jim Simms and Kirk Lewis. Simms a senior who (stands 6') and weighs 168 will anchor the backfield and senior Lewis will be the key among the receiving corps. Lewis stands 6'4" and weighs a strapping 225, making him one of the biggest receivers around.

'71 Panthers shoot for 3rd Mid-Wayne championship

Garden City East head football coach Gary Humphrey is driving his Panthers hard in preparation for the 1971 Mid-Wayne Conference season.

That's nothing new. For the past five years, Humphrey has cracked the whip and the Panthers have responded by producing winners - two Mid-Wayne Conference championships and an undefeated but tied upon 1970 campaign.

There is always a "cautious optimism" to what Humphrey has to say. For example - when asked of his team's chances of repeating their title performance in 1971, he answers:

"We've lost 21 seniors and really only have two regulars back from last year's squad," replied Humphrey, "Any one will tell you that if you've lost that many, you're going to be in a rebuilding cycle."

That's true.

But it also is true that the two regulars who are holdovers are Alex Patterson and Dennis Burton, two of the finest backs in the area. If they play up to their pre-season clippings, they could become two of the scoringst halfbacks in the state this year.

Of course Greg Puishes, an All-Area quarterback last year isn't around to pull TDs out of his hat.

But Steve Orr, a standout on the diamond as well as gridiron, isn't the sort of quarterback one can push around. Orr could, with his "take charge" attitude, be just the one to do the job for the Panthers.

However, East's main threat is not from the inside, but from the outside.

Former Sauk Trail Conference member, Wayne Memorial has stepped from a dissolved league to the Mid-Wayne. And that step could abolish East's hopes for a third consecutive title.

Wayne won the final Sauk Trail Championship, sharing it with Ypsi and Edsel Ford. And the Zebras, though they're playing "it cool" do have designs on East's throne.

"We know they have a splendid team," commented Humphrey. "But we can't worry about them now. We have a lot of other things on our mind and our concern right now is finding ample reserves for our depleted lines.

"And we open with Riverside, not Wayne Memorial. We like to play them one at a time."

Jenkins, Larry Long and Terry Hister, who are holdovers from last year's squad. The Vikings launch the season as host to nonleague rival, Romulus, on Friday.

VIKING STANDOUT - MacArthur Hammons figures heavily into the plans of Sylvester Mosley and his Inkster Vikings. Hammons has size, speed and agility and should be a threat to opponents all season long. Inkster will seek to produce a strong season in a tough Mid-Wayne conference. The Vikings open their season at home against Romulus.

comes to gridiron strategy. He likes to do his talking on the field where the action is.

We're scraping the bottom of the barrel."

Mosley pointed out that one of the reason why the numbers are few is because "most of our boys have to work."

But one thing for sure. The veteran Viking head football coach will again field a team that will be "competitive."

And that, in itself, is some sort of miracle when you figure the quantity he has to work with - he had about 24 boys turn out for the team.

"Heck I'm lucky if we have 18 boys out there," said Mosley. "These other coaches talk about lack of depth - it makes me laugh.

He does have a pair of senior tackles who could make this a pretty good year for the Vikings, considering they only won one of their six contests in 1970. The two, Carl Sanders and Terry Heister, (who will, of course, go both ways) are well groomed for their jobs.

Daryl Williams, the sparkplug of the team for the past two seasons, is back to handle the quarterback chores. He is fast and deceptive. Senior guards Bobby Jenkins and Larry Long and end James DeShazor round out the regulars.

One promising prospect, Mosley said, is Keith Arnold, who is a sophomore. Mosley, who emphasizes conditioning, says this team is ahead of last's in this category.

"We gave away a couple of games last year because we were physically unable to play four quarters. And this group of boys are better conditioned than the last, therefore, I feel we'll definitely improve on our record of a year ago."

Friday Mosley and the Vikings will find out. They'll meet a team, Romulus, that beat them with a second half rally. It'll launch Inkster on the road to an eight game schedule and hopefully up the Mid-Wayne Conference standings.

MANNY LENTINE
'The Dean'

Lentine: 'I'll miss coaching'

The 'dean' loses his team

For the first time in more than a quarter of a century there won't be varsity football at Wayne St. Mary's High School.

In fact, there won't be a high school. The archdiocese decided to close the doors because of fiscal reforms necessitated by the lack of money.

The edict by the archdiocese meant, among other things, that the 'Dean of Area Coaches' - Manny Lentine - is without a team. And Lentine was groping for words to describe his feelings.

"How can I explain it. After putting teams on the field for 20 some years, suddenly, you become a man on the outside looking in. It's really unbelievable. "I love coaching. And I think all the coaches I have ever met loved what they were doing. If they didn't they just wouldn't do it," Lentine said.

Lentine said that coaching football above all other sports demands a lot of sacrifice, hard work, and attention.

"Football is on a plateau by itself," said Lentine. "It has the elements of intrigue, plot, physical contact and mental ingenuity.

"No other sport offers that much."

Lentine has had several Southwest and Second Divisional championships. He also has groomed many a boy for college football. Asked to name his "Outstanding Team", he answered:

"Hey, all of these teams and kids were great. How could I ever go back and say one was better than the other? They all had jobs to do, and when they did them everything was all right.

"And when they didn't, you can bet they heard about it."

Lentine, 48, also served as St. Mary's athletic director. He coached basketball and baseball. Presently he is employed as the City of Westland's assessor.

Football is going to miss Lentine.

among the halfbacks are Jeff Leach, 5'11" and Bill Wilcox, 5'11" 162. Ed Sweda and John Murray join Lewis as the veterans on the receiving squad. Both are seniors and Sweda stands 6'4" and weighs 187 while Murray stands at an even six feet and weighs 172.

full backs, halfbacks and split ends.

Steve Jacunski figures heavily into the Tiger plans this fall. Jacunski, only a junior is expected to see a lot of action as Draheim has high hopes for the 5'11" 178 junior letterman.

Ken Yeager and Bill Baker are both seniors and have both seen action for Draheim at fullback. Both stand at 5'10" with Yeager tipping the scales at 167 and Baker weighing in at 173.

save one, from last year's squad and should prove a threat to enemy offenses.

Draheim will operate with a multiple offensive alignment, and will counter with his own style of 5-3 defensive alignment.

If everything goes well, West should be right on top, scrambling for a Tri-River football conference championship.

organizations too, but cheerleading comes first," she said.

"Cheerleaders do a lot of in-service work that most people aren't aware of," Miss O'Connor observed. "They work hard getting ready for pep assemblies, work with the Booster Club, decorate for sports banquets."

Often, cheerleaders are forgotten in the wake of a victorious team, but they compose a hard core of staunch supporters who deserve a lot of credit themselves.

Each fall, they gather with the head football coach for a few basic lessons in football — just to insure that they're chanting the appropriate cheer at the right time.

No one but their sponsors know exactly how hard the promoters of school cheer work to make each athletic event — at least from the spectator's point of view — a success.

There is a tendency for schools to encourage their cheerleaders to support not only the major sport teams, but also the minor sports that up to a few years ago didn't have any type of organized rooting section.

It's a possibility that we may see a lot snappier baseball and track teams in the future with all the added attention a cheerleading squad brings.

Churchill

Livonians will have another gough fight on their hands in order to take the crown away from the present holder, Waterford Mott.

Churchill will learn of its weaknesses, and strength, on Sept. 18, when the Chargers run up against Detroit Thurston, a team some say will unseat North Farmington as the Northwest Suburban Conference champ.

SPECTATOR FASHIONS - Stuart's Apparel, Wayne, and Stuart's Other Side, at the Metro Place Mall, Wayne, has come up with an array of smart fall styles that can brighten the fashion scene, both at the big game and at after-game celebrations. For the younger ladies rooting for their team, the styles at the left and right are the bright look in mix and match, the dressier mini skirt and striped top from the Other Side, as is the more casual corduroy buttoned jacket worn with double-knit pants and a bright print shirt. Mothers of players are not to be overlooked, and the center costume is perfect for the cooler days, with warm, rusty, washable suede used for the two-piece look, and the contrasting dark jersey, from Stuart's Apparel.

Tartars to face 3 new rugged rivals

Wayne State pulled a surprise last year by pushing a 4-4 mark of 1969 to a 6-2 record one of the best in Michigan. The Tartars twice had three-game win streaks and sprang a couple of upsets. Coach Vern Gale heads into his seventh WSU season (25-24-1) with 16 lettermen on hand, but the schedule has toughened up. It does include five clubs from last year, four of whom the Tartars topped. But, tough trio of new foes is also on tap and Wayne State will sneak up on nobody. With the first three games on the road, the Tartars face their ruggedest start in Gale's tenure. The home field finale vs. Central State will mark Gale's 100th game as a college head coach.

The Tartars have a flock of seasoned hands around including several who could bid for sectional or national honors.

Keying the offensive line is junior guard Terry Kohler (6-1, 212), a two-year regular along 6-2, 210-pound junior tight end Larry Fitzpatrick, also a two-year regular. Junior split end Jim Russell (6-4, 200) averaged 19.4 yards on 16 catches and senior flanker Terry Fuller (6-3, 180) caught 32 for 451 yards in '70.

On defense where the Tartars showed their greatest improvement a year ago several key people return. Co-captain and middle guard Ed Moten (6-2, 205) made the switch from linebacker and stood out in the last half of the season. Senior end Ken Russell (6-4, 205) has been a two-year standout, discouraging sweeps to his side and swiping six passes in two seasons. Safety Gary Schultz (6-1, 180) and end Jim Koukios (6-2, 210) each stole three aeriels last year.

In the offensive backfield, the top four rushers and seven of the first nine return with two-way Co-captain back George Breaz (6-2, 210), stumpy fullback-punter Jack Kline (5-8, 185) and skittery Mike Carner (5-11, 162); heading the way Senior Mitch Ritter (6-0, 202) tops the solid quarterback crew.

WSU may lack the breakaway speed in its running and return games, but the passing attack looks adequate. The development of the lines is the key, its winningest year ever in 1969-70 with a 94-64 record and has for consecutive 500-or better overall marks going.

Prep football has taken another turn toward the better, as the Michigan High School Athletic Association has instituted a number of rule changes designed to make the game more exciting, as well as safer for the players involved.

Spearing, or butting, the act of using a helmet as a battering ram against a ball carrier is now taboo. With the inception of the face mask in the 1950's, players soon found out that they could use their helmet as an effective weapon without danger of losing a full set of teeth. Consequently, the act of spearing became common and injuries resulting from such tackles became more and more frequent.

The MHSAA has handed down the ruling in an effort to prevent more serious injury. A major penalty will now be stepped off against any high school team caught spearing, especially on secondary tackles.

Another change designed to eliminate "cheap shots" says that a third penalty on any given play will be stepped off. Before this year, offsetting penalties would automatically nullify a play, and some players would take advantage of this by deliberately foul on the play. Offsetting penalties, should a third penalty not be called, will still nullify a play but the third penalty rule will help eliminate intentional fouls because of a play that would be nullified.

Cleats will be limited to one half inch in length. Knee and leg injuries have been a regular facet of football in recent years and many have been blamed on shoes getting caught in the turf when the cleats won't release. The shorter cleat has been designed to release easier, thus hoping to prevent injury to the players.

The foot may be coming back into high school football. A rule instituted three years ago has now been put into effect, and all goal posts must measure 23 feet, four inches in width. The three year lull gave all schools a chance to get the new posts before the rule would be enforced. The wider post will make it easier to kick field goals and extra points. The field goal is almost a forgotten animal in high school football as most teams prefer touchdowns, but the wider goalposts should make a more inviting target, thus increasing the number of tries.

Receivers have been given a break as well, up until this year the rules stated that a receiver must have control of the football and bring both feet down in bounds in order for the pass to be completed. MHSAA has issued a statement saying that the referee may use his judgement if an offensive receiver is knocked out of bounds. If referee feels that he would have brought both feet in bounds had he not been hit, the referee may call the pass complete.

Referees will also have more power to determine the length of play. An official now has the right to suspend the game before four full quarters have been played should weather conditions be too severe, or another abnormal situation occurs.

Should the game be interrupted before the full amount of time has elapsed, the score at the time the game is suspended will be considered the final score.

Officials will be able to

'M' means 'team to beat'

ANN ARBOR, Mich. Michigan has won 25 football games in the past three seasons and there's no reason to believe 1971 will find the Wolverines of Coach Bo Schembechler on any kind of downswing.

For the past three years UM has won eight, eight and nine games while losing a total of only six and in each season the traditional season ending clash against Ohio state has determined the Big Ten championship.

Schembechler believes Woody Hayes' Buckeyes are obviously the teams to beat once again, but he adds emphatically and cautiously, "I think North western, Michigan State, Illinois and some others will be much better than they have been. They're closing that gap and it won't be strictly Michigan and Ohio State any more."

OSU finished sixth nationally in the final Associated Press Poll of the 1970 season, with a 9-0 record, while Michigan ended up with a 9-1 mark.

There are 15 two year lettermen back out of 23 letter winners and Schembechler will be relying heavily on those seniors, "to give us the leadership we need."

Quarterback is the biggest questionmark as fall practice got under way Monday in preparation for the season opener at conference foe Northwestern Sept. 11-a week earlier than normal because of an expanded schedule from 10 to 11 games.

There are six candidates for quarterback and four are sophomores. The other two are juniors and one of those, Larry Cipa, is still a soph in eligibility. The only lettering quarterback is junior Frank McBride, and he is probably about fifth on the list depth wise.

Sophs Kevin Casey and Tom Salde will likely battle for the top spot ahead of sophomore Greg Koss, Cipa, McBride and Dave Brandon.

Bo has some of the best backfield depth in the country at the other positions, with Billy Taylor a strong candidate for All-American running at tailback for the third year and fellow senior Glenn Doughty a standout wing-back.

Fritz Seyferth, a good blocking fullback and power runner, will have to work hard for a starting berth ahead of highly touted sophs Ed Shuttlesworth and Bob Thornbladh. Harry Banks and Alan "Cowboy" Walker will back up Taylor and expect to play considerably.

Five of six offensive linemen are letter winners and four of those won monograms twice. Most notable, perhaps, is guard Reggie McKenzie and center Guy Murdock, both candidates for post season honors.

Jim Brandstatter will have a tough time filling the shoes of departed All-American tackle Dan Dierdorf and will be pressed by soph prospect Curtis Tucker, who has impressed Schembechler.

But Bo, now in his third year at UM after serving at Miami of Ohio, is primarily a defense oriented coach and believes that is where a team's strength lies

guard Greg Ellis are coming back off injuries and are keys to the defense, according to the coach.

Among the defensive newcomers to watch for are junior Randy Logan, switched to defensive halfback from wingback, and Taylor's backup Craig Mutch, a converted running back who was All-American in high school two years ago in Michigan.

"This could be my best team of all time," is the way Coach Dan Boisture, head mentor of the Eastern Michigan Hurons, speaks about his young squad of 61 football players as the opening game approaches.

Boisture is not talking through his hat when he expresses his optimism as the Hurons appear to be more solid at more positions than has been the case in many a year.

Back are the super-star athletes of the past two seasons, Larry Ratcliff (6-1, 198) at tailback and Dave Pureifory (6-1, 235), an All-American at defensive tackle, both seniors with a lot of game experience and a bundle of Huron records.

Ratcliff already owns more records than one can count for the offensive squad while Pureifory has established defensive statistics to match on the other side of the line. Both have been performing for some time now under the watchful eyes of professional scouts and Boisture thinks both will be drafted high.

Joining Ratcliff in the backfield will be ex-Marine Bobby Hill (5-10, 195) at the quarterback slot and Jackson Nunn, a bull-like 5-9, 205 fullback. Hill, a shophomore, came to Eastern after serving a stint in the Marine Corps and starting at the helm of the Quantico Marine football team for two seasons. According to Boisture, "Hill has adequate speed, an adequate arm, and adqaute ball handling ability, but he wins" The coach likes the authority with which the sophomore runs the ball club and says, "We seem to move the ball down the field when he is in thee."

Nunn has the unenviable job of filling the shoes of graduated fullback Mike Yankee, a three year regular for the Hurons. The junior from Trafford, Pennsylvania has been showing good poise and power and looks like he will be able to handle the short yardage duty without trouble.

The pass catching duo of Tim Cogswell (6-0, 172) and Tim Durbin (6-0, 178) man the wide receiver and slot positions respectively and look like a reliable pair. Last year Cogswell split playing time with Chip Gooden and has made steady progress. "He is probably the best downfield blocker on the squad," Boisture said. On Durbin the coach said that he is happy to have him as he can get loose to catch the long TD pass.

Up front, the Hurons have strength, experience and depth, a combination hard to beat. Veteran tackles Bennett Edwards (6-1, 237) and Bill Dulac (6-3, 224) head an impressive string of giant starters. Bert Brengman (6-0, 223) and Jim Langan (6-1, 222) are slated to go at the guard positons while Ted Hand (6-2, 233), brother of Larry Hand of the Detroit Lions, is the leading candidate for the center slot. Lou Yovanovich (6-4, 205) holds down tight end and according to Boisture, "gives us a tight end who can catch the ball."

Backing up the front six are a number of other bulking linemen including Ted Keasey, (6-2, 224), Steve Betz (6-0, 229), and Don Heasley (6-1, 227) at tackle, Bill Siefert (5-10, 218), George Bednorek (6-1, 220), and Chuck Boytano discuss the situation with the captains and coaching staff of both teams and a suspended game will now count as a regularly played contest.

All of the rules have been initiated to improve the all around play of the game, and to protect the players involved.

Spectators at high school football games this fall should have little trouble orientating themselves to the new rules and the MHSAA hopes that the changes will add to the excitement and enjoyment of high school football.

Lions must work for top of hill

DETROIT — This is the fifth year of the five year building plan under Coach Joe Schmidt and that would seem to mean the year the Detroit Lions cash in their talents for a National Football League title.

But the optimism that the Super Bowl is certain to be the last game on their schedule has been jolted by three exhibition season losses. Those losses, however, might be the best thing that could have happened.

Runaway confidence has mellowed into tempered hopefulness. It appears as if Detroit has an excellent chance to nip Minnesota for the Central Division crown on the National Conference and quite possibly go all the way thereafter.

"The Lions have climbed long way up the hill the last two seasons to come close to the top," Schmidt says. "But the last stride sometimes can be toughest."

Just three seasons ago Detroit wallowed in the standing with a 4-8-2 record. In 1969 it climbed to 9-4-1 before the 10-4 mark last year which was good for second in its division and a berth in the playoffs as the best runner-up team.

Dallas blanked the Lions 5-0 in the playoff in a game that caught Detroit at probably its flatest of the year.

"You have to be able to execute when the chips are down and we weren't able to do it," Schmidt moans when asked about that loss.

Schmidt, former all-pro linebacker with Detroit, and the Lions front office concentrated on drafting to improve the defense—particularly the pass rush. The once heralded Detroit front four, spearheaded by Alex Karras only got to the opponent passer 23 times in 14 games.

Tackle Bob Bell, the No. 1 draft choice from Cincinnati, could develop quickly in elevating the problem and even win a starting berth ahead of Dan Goich.

Karras, in his 13th season, has apparently fully recovered from knee troubles which hampered him last year and that could mean a world of difference.

Detroit was No. 1 in the NFC last year in stopping opponents' rushing game, giving up an average of only 82 yards. That might even be improved this year and a prime reason is the linebacking of Paul Naumoff, Mike Lucci and Wayne Walker—as able a trio as can be found.

Lions defensive backfield specialists, burdened by a poor pass rush, gave up 2,296 air yards last year—more than 1,000 above than was gained on the ground.

Detroit tied for tops in the NFC in interceptions with 23, with Dick LeBeau and Lem Barney picking off nine and seven respectively. LeBeau, in his 13th year, is coming off an excellent season while fifth-year pro Barney is coming off a bad one.

Offensively the Lions finished 8th in total yards gained 3,984 but tied for first in touchdowns with 41. They were 13th in passes attempted, 12th in passes completed, yet second in points scored and third in first downs.

That indicates a standout running game. It should be better this year if Mel Farr stays healthy. Altie Taylor and Steve Owens plus durable Bill Triplett join him as good runner.

Schmidt says Greg Landry is his top quarterback, but early faltering would bring on Bill Munson. Landry is more flashy and a running threat while Munson is fairly conservative. They have some of the fastest receivers as targets: Earl McCullouch, Larry Walton, and rookie Ron Jessie.

Tight end Charlie Sanders is probably the best all around player.

The offensive line used to be a joke but not any more. All Pro center Ed Flanagan anchors it. With him are tackles Jim Yarbrough and Rocky Freitas, plus guards Chuck Walton and Frank Gallagher.

Detroit's kicking game is excellent. Field goal specialist Errol Mann has scored 101 points each of the past two years while second year punter Herman Weaver averages 40 yards a kick and booms them cloud high.

1970 finish: second in the National Conference Central Division and reached playoffs. 1970 record: 10-4-0 regular season plus 0-1 in playoffs.

Team's strong points: Mostly young players who have developed together as a team for last five years and about ready to pit peak. Capable quarter backing in Greg Landry and Bill Munson. All Pro caliber players in cornerback Lem Barney, center Ed Flanagan, tight end Charlie Sanders, and running back Mel Farr.

Team's weaknesses: Pass rush was inadequate last year and must improve vastly. Defensive backfield is streaky. Tendency to commit costly penalties, particularly offensive holding, which destroy momentum.

New Faces: Defensive tackle Bob Bell, top draft choice from Cincinnati; speedy wide receiver Ron Jessie; linebacker Charlie Weaver and tackle Ray Parson are top newcomers.

This also could be 'Year of the Spartan'

Improvement of a proven passing attack backed by a better running game are causing football hopes to run higher at Michigan State this fall.

"We think we won't have to fall back on the long bomb pass so much this year," said Duffy Daugherty, starting his 18th season as head coach. "We are trying for a more balanced attack to gain ground the surest way and to make fewer mistakes."

Quarterback Mike Rasmussen now is a seasoned senior. The lefthanded slinger set three MSU marks last year when he completed 91 of 199 pass tries for 1,344 yards. And he has continued to set a fast pace in early drills.

George Mihaiu, recovered from a knee injury, is available as backup quarterback. For a change of pace, he likes to run the ball.

The running game should be more of a threat. Pint size, 161-pound, Eric "The Flea" Allen is back after leading all rushers with 811 yards last year. Allen scored 10 touchdowns and also is a kickoff return specialist.

Jesse Williams, another jet-type back, has returned after recovering from a knee injury — one of a series that has plagued the Spartans.

Tackle Ron Curl out for a year with a broken arm, and Brad VanPelt at safety are expected to lead the defense. Between the two of them, they weigh 475 pounds.

Tight end Billy Joe DuPres, who stretches to 6-foot-4, is the most experienced receiver. He pulled down 21 passes for 402 yards last year.

MSU has an almost automatic toe in kicker Borys Shlapak who hit 20 of 22 extra point tries in 1970.

Daugherty is high on some half-dozen sophomores and is banking on them to help rebuild a weakened defensive backfield and linebacking corps. But he knows early blooming sophomores often fade later in the fall.

The early count had 33 lettermen returning and 21 lost. An ace in the hole is the academic comeback of Frank Kolch, a big and rugged third quarterback prospect who appeared lost to the team for failure to hit the books.

'71 Romulus has turned Independent for rivals

Romulus a title contender ...if Eagles had a league

George Pratt has been building Romulus' football machine for the past four years. And in his fifth year as head coach Pratt feels he has a title contender. But, one thing went wrong with the master plan - the Eagles are left without a league. Romulus, along with Ecorse, Rouge, and Willow Run competed in the Twin Valley. In June that conference dissolved. The Eagles will play an independent schedule for 1971.

"I feel we would have had a good shot at the title if there were a league this year," said Pratt. "The one team that may have caused us problems was Rouge, and we will play them our sixth game."

Pratt's sentiments are backed up with a good crop of holdovers who won four of their nine games last year. It was their best record since 1962.

"We can come out of this with a respectable season if the boys keep working as they have been," Pratt said.

The Eagles get a chance to flex their muscles on Friday, Sept. 18 at Inkster, a team which always caused Romulus problems on the gridiron.

Romulus' offensive lineup will include Daryl Gooden at tackle (6-foot-2, 195-pounds), Dave McBrayer at guard (5-foot-9, 200-pounds) at tight end Ken McMann (6-foot-5, 190-pounds), John Arrington at tailback and fullback Avery Pantallion.

The search for a consistent quarterback apparently has ended with junior Virgil Smith who, the coach says, "is a good runner with an effective passing arm."

But the search for starters continue both offensively and defensively as the graduation-riddled Eagles were left with only seven regulars. Of those seven, Tim Miank (5-foot-11, 175-pounds) and Herb Bordt (6-foot-0, 160-pounds) form the wall at defensive end.

Pratt hopes to use Gooden at one of the linebacker slots and the search continues for the second backup man. A couple of determined letter men Earl Champagne (5-foot-10, 165-pounds) and Paul Robackiewicz (5-foot-11, 170-pound) have the quickness (but not the weight) for the tackle positions.

"We're rebuilding the middle of our defensive wall," pointed out Pratt, "and quickness will paid off if we can come up with a couple of solid linebackers."

In the defensive secondary, Herb Miller, Smith's backup man for the signal-calling, McMann, Gary King (5-foot-10-160-pounds) and veteran center John Maitland (5-foot-9, 175-pounds) show indications that they will get their jobs done.

However, injuries have already sidelined two promising candidates. Bruce Stracken, a junior split end, is out with a broken wrist, and sophomore George Sedlacek, who was trying for one of the starting guard berths, suffered a broken leg.

If Romulus can steer away from further injuries, the Eagles may generate enough power to orbit them to a winning season. But that's a big 'if.'

COMING OUR WAY — One reason why Romulus figures to be tough on the gridiron this year is Brent Hamilton, a speedy halfback who was the Eagle's leading groundgainer last. Hamilton is one of 15 veterans returning to Coach George Pratt's lineup and the Eagles will be the first to test Inkster High School, opening the campaign at Inkster on Friday, Sept. 17 at 3 p.m.

Huron's '71 model seeks improvement on 6-3 record

Huron lineup dotted with vets

It shouldn't take Huron Coach Lee Smeltzer and the Chiefs very long to find out where they stand - or fall - in the Huron Conference this season.

Smeltzer's charges face three of the four teams that are considered title favorites right off the bat, starting with Grosse Ile on Friday, Sept. 17 at the islander's gridiron.

"When you look at the schedule and see Monroe Catholic Central and Tecumseh, the defending champ, also on top of your schedule, you know it won't be long before you know what type of team you have," said Smeltzer.

Tecumseh won the title last year and the champs have most of their players back, while Monroe Catholic Central has always been considered a Class B state power. Grosse Ile has 25 lettermen back.

"So our work will be cut out for us," reminds Smeltzer, who in his second year as the Chiefs' strategist guided them to a 6-3 record—the best football record since the inception of the sport at the New Boston High school in 1953.

Smeltzer has set his sights on bettering that record, shooting hoping for a 7-2 over-all mark this season.

With the Chiefs' offensive backfield dotted with regulars and a staff of nine lettermen who saw plenty of action last year, Huron may just be able to realize its coach's goal.

A junior, Mario Garcia, who can pass and has "the intelligence to lead us" has been selected as this year's quarterback. Dan Clark, a two-year-regular at end, will become the battering ram of this team after proving his acuity in intra-squad games and scrimmages.

Smeltzer also has running muscle in Jim Inman, who has successfully made the switch from fullback to halfback and alongside of Inman will be Wayne Kaiser. Both Inman and Kaiser are seniors.

"We have a lot of experience in that backfield," admits Smeltzer.

There's also plenty of depth behind them. Jamie

Hinojosa was one of the leading receivers in Monroe County, hauling down passes to the tune of 250 yards. Jamie will have to await the outcome of a duel being staged by Dana Kemp (5-foot-11, 160-pounds) and Ron Duemnick (5-foot-11, 165-pounds) to find out which of the two will play the opposite end.

Two brothers - Ron and Keith Thompson appear to have the guard slots all sewed up. Ron, a tow-year regular, will also co-captain the team with Frank Cameron.

Cameron was named to the all-conference team a year ago as a guard. And he's back at 6-foot-0, 177-pounds to defend that berth.

Bruce Bullard, a regular at center (5-foot-11, 161-pounds) and Mike Wauer (6-foot-6, 190-pounds) who can handle the offensive tackle and defensive end slots are other impressionables back on this year's Chief roster.

"They are all experienced because we didn't have many out for the team the last couple of years, so these boys got in a lot of playing time," said Smeltzer.

And the Chiefs just may cash in on that experience.

COMING RIGHT AT YOU — The Chiefs will be on the warpath Friday night when Coach Lee Smeltzer's ball club opens the 1971 football campaign at Grosse Ile. Though the Huron lacks depth, Smeltzer feels that the team could even better their 6-3 won-lost ratio of a year ago. One reason why the Chiefs' boss is optimistic is Bill Grover who weighs in at 236-pounds.

Belleville High will attempt to break even in '71

Title drought plagues Tigers

It has been a long time - too long - since Belleville has made any designs upon football championships. And though second-year Coach Keith Emerson says he's not looking for a miracle to end the Tiger title drought, he is looking for his team to rebound from a dismal 2-7 over-all record of a year ago.

"We're going to have to take first things first," said Emerson whose coaching tenure expands over a decade and half, including a stint at Dearborn Heights Robichaud. "Last year we got acquainted with one another, this year these boys know what we are looking for."

Emerson pointed out that "our boys can play good football and right now that's our goal. If we do play fundamentally sound football, we will win our share of games."

Belleville floundered in last year's Suburban Six Conference campaign, winning one of its five games. The Tigers defeated Livonia Bentley, 14-6 to escape being the doormat in the league.

However this year the conference has expanded to admit two more high schools. The "6" has become the Suburban "8" with Dearborn and Edsel Ford (also a Dearborn high school) as the newcomers. Both high schools have fielded respectable football teams in the past.

Edsel claimed one-third share of the final Sauk Trail Conference title. The other two shares went to Wayne Memorial and Ypsilanti. Dearborn was the cellar dweller in the now defunct Sauk Trail League.

Three two-year lettermen will play a major role in Belleville's bid for grid respectability. Keith Simons, a recently-crowned AAU Age-Group heavyweight wrestling champ, is back at tackle. He is 6-foot-3 and weighs in at 240 pounds.

Simons made about every honorary football team in the area last year and there is no reason why he shouldn't repeat this season.

Tony Ogletree, a 6-foot-1, 185-pounds senior halfback and Gary Krajewski, a 5-foot-10, 170-pound senior guard are the other two proven holdovers.

The five other lettermen include guards John Alford, 5-foot-11, 200-pounds, John Myers, 5-foot-10, 175-pounds; back Mike Dansard, a 155-pound, 5-foot-9 junior and end Terry Pate, 6-foot-2, 180-pound junior.

Belleville, which has always had some outstanding quarterbacks to lead them, will have senior Mike Garland returning to handle the job again this year.

"Mike has natural ability and we feel he's the man for the job," said Emerson.

Other promising prospects are junior backs Stan Mars (5-foot-9, 155-pounds), Rick White (5-foot-9, 160-pounds) and Ralph Cohen (5-foot-11, 190-pounds); and senior halfback Charles Biddie (5-foot-10, 165-pounds).

Linemen who have caught the coach's attention are tackles Charles Wills (6-foot-1, 185-pounds) and Ron Bluhm (5-foot-11, 175-pounds). Wills is a senior, while Bluhm a junior.

Dueling for the starting center job are senior Bill Henneles (5-foot-9, 160-pounds) and junior Lester

Crawford (5-foot-10, 190-pounds). Junior Tom Griffith appears to have sewed up one of the end positions. He's 6-foot-3 and 170-pounds.

Belleville will join a host of other area teams on Friday, Sept. 17 to launch its 1971 campaign. The Tigers will head for nonleague territory - Temperance for an 8 p.m. encounter. Local fans will get a glimpse at the Tigers in league action for the first time the following week when their team will host Trenton for the inaugural Suburban 8 Conference meeting.

field efforts that WSU completed work on the first stage of the new football stadium in the fall of 1968 as well as a baseball diamond, running track, 16 tennis courts and a stadium locker complex.

Gale has had coaching experience in baseball, wrestling, basketball and swimming, giving his extensive knowledge of a large athletic program as WSU's own 11-sport lineup. He has also taught both theory and skills courses in the area of physical education.

As a collegian, he averaged more than seven yards per carry in three varsity seasons at Wyoming and the Cheyenne (Wyo.) native has carried the Winged-T attack as a basic striking part of his multiple offense. The WSU system depends on quickness and agility with concentrated power. Basically a ground-attack club, the WSU team will pass as much as necessary. Prominent in the WSU style is the kicking games in all its phases - field goal and extra point placements, kickoffs, punts and the colorful quick-kick. His system stresses defense even more than the offense with an emphasis on field position.

Vern married the former Linden Storey of Cheyenne in 1951 and the Gale family now includes Kelley (18), Kevin (17), Brandon (16), Shannon (13.), Erin (11), Tara (8) and Leah (5). The Gales live in suburban Dearborn Heights.

John Glenn's Rockets are raring to go

Glenn '11' finally has a home

Good size, but a lack of break-away speed is what confronts Bob Lusk and his John Glenn Rockets in the 1971 grid campaign. The Rockets are a big and strong team, but they lack that burst of speed needed to consistently get around the ends.

"We are strong and big this year," Lusk said, "and we will basically run our offensive plays from tackle to tackle. We are strong enough to move the ball in that fashion, but we don't have a lot of speed so we won't be able to get outside that much."

Lusk is coming off of a 5-4 won lost record last year, and hopes to improve his standing in the Northwest Suburban League this year. "Livonia Franklin and Thurston will be the teams to beat, but I think we will be tough this year."

Glenn faces a rigorous schedule, playing its first three games on the road before coming home to their new field for their fourth game. Glenn will travel successively to Wayne, Farmington Harrison and Birmingham Groves before facing a tough Thurston club on Oct. 8 for their home opener.

The Rockets new field is located on the school grounds, just behind the school proper. Up until this year, the Rockets played their home games at the Wayne Memorial field.

Lusk has as a plus factor a strong team atmosphere this year, as well as good team experience. "Our kids are really ready to play football," Lusk added, "and our defensive backfield is back almost intact, we only have a couple of spots on the line that show inexperience and I'm optimistic about our team's chances this year."

Lusk will apparently shuffle the quarterbacking duties this year between Dave Wesley and Don May. Both are juniors and Wesley sports a 6'0" 165 pound frame while May stands 5'8" and weighs in at 150 pounds.

John Lee, a returning letterman who sports 6'0" 170 credentials, will bear the brunt of the pass catching responsibilities, as the Rockets' receiving corps was heavily hit by graduation losses this year.

Up front, the Rockets will depend on Frank Higgins, 5'11" 185, Bill DeVeir, 5'10" 205 and Greg Gursky, 6'0" 200. Gursky, however, is out for at least another week with an infection that covers most of his body. Gursky missed most of the action during the 1970 campaign because of illness, and Lusk is hoping that his senior center will remain healthy for the 1971 campaign as his blocking talents would also help out the Rockets forward wall.

All-Area defensive back in 1970 was Mike Slanaker, and Lusk was counting heavily on his senior star to anchor the Rocket's defensive backfield this year. Slanaker suffered a knee injury in practice and is expected to be out of action for another two or three weeks.

Experience in the defensive section falls on Lee DeVeir a 5'10" 210 senior middle-guard, Kim Horton, a senior tackle who sports a 6'3" 193 frame and Frank Higgins a senior tackle who stands 5'11" and tips the scales at 185. Lusk is hoping to build a strong defensive unit that can prevent a play from breaking open around these lettermen.

Injuries have already struck a blow into the plans for Lusk and his charges.

Ray Barlis, a promising junior guard who measured 6'3" 210, is out for the season by way of a broken leg that happened during a slip up while running through a play. Chuck Talaga, another promising senior is out for the season with cartilage damage and Slanaker with knee damage head up the list.

Ed Ostenoski has been sidelined with a concussion for at least two weeks and Jerry Huff is out indefinitely with back trouble.

Tim Barnhagen must sit out at least two weeks with a twisted knee and Ken Dahn is probably out for the season with torn ligaments in his hip. Bob Brockman is fighting a severe case of the flu and Tim Kirks suffers from recurring dizzy spells, thus keeping him out of action.

With Lusk not having the greatest depth around, these injuries are hurting his chances for a title severely. "We've lost a couple of key players, but most of them will be back and we will just have to play over the injuries," Lusk said.

It will be a tough year for Glenn in a power-packed league, but their coach summed it up by saying "If they are going to beat us, they'll have to play some strong football to do it."

Did you know...

Did you know that Michigan State, with a 4-6 record last season, sent three assistants into head coaching jobs and Fred Stabley, Spartan Sports Information Director, wonders if that might be a record for a losing team.

Al Dorow became head coach of the Hamilton Tiger Cats of the Canadian League and Dave Smith took over as head coach at Ferris State and George Paterno returned to the Merchant Marine Academy as top coach and assistant athletic director.

And when the Fellowship of Christian Athletes staged a banquet on the eve of the Coaches Game in Lubbock, some 500 fans attended and that's a record, says Wayne Atchenson, assistant director.

termen and eight returning starters on offense and seven returning starters on defense, we feel that we have the nucleus of a strong contender in the Tri-River League.

Three year starters, Kirk Lewis and Jim Simms should lead a strong offensive unit that we feel certain will put points on the board.

Other returning offensive starters include, Randy Smitt, Bob Cowen, Dirk Werhane, Steve Jacunski and Tom Wolfrom. In addition, Dennis Rosa and Jerry Holmes saw a good deal of service last year in back-up roles.

The battle for quarterback and fullback positions has been the most interesting in our early workouts with Dave Wiacek holding a slight edge for the former and Bill Baker and Ken Yeager vying for the latter.

The defensive secondary returns intact with Bill Wilcox and Tom Wolfrom joining Jim Simms. The most interesting fight for starting roles on defense is at linebacker where Krik Lewis, Bob Shelley, Jerry Holmes, Greg Donnelly (a St. Mary's transfer) and Steve Jacunski are all still in contention for a starting role.

Bob Cowen, Dennis Rosa and Ken Yeager return to the defensive line where the greatest concern is finding a replacement for John Maggioncalda, who is now at Brown University.

With two excellent JV teams and 22 returning seniors, we feel that barring costly injuries, the Tigers will improve on their record of last year and be in the thick of the fight for the Tri-River crown.

GEORGE LOVICH Franklin High

This will be a rebuilding year for us at Franklin. We lost nine starters from our defense of last year. The defense of last year. The defense will be a big question mark for us. The two returning lettermen are seniors Mark Newman and Bob Lee. On offense we have six returning lettermen from our last years squad. They are Mike and Rick Graham (twins), John Piippo, Chuck Clark, John Casey, and Ron Wilson.

Our over-all size will not be as big as last year. Because of this being a rebuilding year, we will lack depth. Injuries could be a major factor on the outcome of our season. We hope we can get by with a minimum amount of injuries. It is hard enough to find one person to fill a job but to find a backup man for this position is next to impossible.

Some of the people who have been looking good so far in our early practices are Dennis Schick (FB), Bruce Vogt (LB), Rob Benedict (LB), Mike Dugan (G), Steve Crowe G, Joe Jinnett (QB), Pat

MacLean (DHB), Ken Yuhasz, (HB), Mike McKindles (HB), Mark Bair (TF), Dave Frecka (TE), John Wolski (TE), and Randy Taylor at (DE).

This year's coaching staff also has a new look.

I have two new varsity assistants in Armand Vigna (line) and Gerry Cullin (split ends and def. half back coach). Two very hard working and capable coaches. On our reserve team, Ed Hill will be the read reserve coach and Dale Rothenberg will be his assistant.

Athletic Director Walt Cosens has decided to retire from coaching after 20 years of working with athletics and kids. He will remain as Athletic Director at Franklin. Last years backfield coach Jim Ford has accepted a principals job north of Grand Rapids. These two people will be missed.

WAYNE GORMAN Wayne Memorial

We are going into this season with an inexperienced offensive and defensive line.

On offense, we are missing four out of the six interior linemen who started for us last year. These holes will be filled primarily with players coming off a weak junior varsity team that won only two games.

Consequently our biggest offensive problem is developing some linemen to replace our four missing starters.

In the offensive backfield we have three out of four starters returning, so we feel this will be a positive point.

The biggest problem facing us this season is rebuilding our defense.

With seven of the eight starters missing from the front of our defense we are going to have a very inexperienced line the first half of the season. The only defensive starter returning is end Bruce Davis who has moved to linebacker.

In the defensive secondary we have three out of four starters returning.

Last year defense was our strongest point, so we are very concerned about starting this season with seven starters missing. In our biggest games last year we only scored two touchdowns so we have not been a very explosive high scoring team.

In the offensive line we have Bill Galbraith and Don Miller at tackle with Bruce Davis and Jack Faber at guard. At center it will be wither Steve Brown or Mike Bachus.

Our interior linemen average about 170 pounds so we will be smaller than last year. At Split end Sam Still 150 pound starter is returning.

In the offensive backfield Rick Stevens, Quarterback, Tony LaPere, Tailback, and Joe Keister, slotback our returning starters. At fullback Harold Duprie looks like a possible starter.

On defense our top linebackers will be Bruce Davis 5'9" 160 pounds and Jack Faber 5'9" 155 pounds. At defensive end the top prospects are Craig Barczuk 6' 160 pounds, Terry Schultz 5'11 155 pounds and Gene Taylor 6'1" 170 pounds. The top tacklers look like Don Miller, 170, Bill Galbraith, 190, Ray Fox, 170, and Mike Bachus 170.

At Middle Guard the top players probably will be Dennis Farmer 5'8", 150, and sophomore Kevin Kaufman 5'7, 140.

GARY HUMPHREY GC East High

Garden City East is no different from any other area team that loses 21 seniors. With only two returning starters from last year's undefeated team, rebuilding will be the key job of the coaching staff.

The 1970 Junior Varsity team has provided us with a good nucleus of juniors, most of whom will be holding starting positions this season.

The only returning starter, halfback Alex Patterson, along with quarterback Steve Orr and halfback Dennis Burton will be the heart of our offensive attack.

Returning linebacker Dave Persichini has been moved to defensive tackle in an effort to rebuild a defensive unit which has lost 10 starters.

In enthusiasm, hustle and tradition can take the place of size and experience, then Garden City East could surprise many "experts" this season.

JOHN LUSK John Glenn

We started out optimistically, but since we started combat practice we have had several key injuries that may effect our over-all performance and season.

The loss to starting guards Ray Banks and Chuck Palaga, who are out for the season because of injuries, inevitably will dim our prospects.

JOE LASCOLA Cherry Hill

The Cherry Hill Spartan football team is very inexperienced with only four regular starters returning from last years team.

Veterans returning are guard Doug Evans and tackler Rick Henry and Wayne Cariveau. Wayne is being tested at fullback. Berry Coughenhour returns to his end position.

Cherry Hill will be counting heavily on letter winners from last years team to bolster the starting lineup. Halfback Dave Zofke, Kevin McDonnell, Dave Dixon, and newcomer Jeff McIntyre are expected to supply running power to the Spartan attack, helped by backs moving up from the Junior Varsity team, John Squire, Dale Kelly, George Herman and Dave Soloman. Transfers Joe and Ken Riolo have been very impressive at the Spartan camp and will battle for starting berths in the backfield. Sophomore Bob Dunsmore is expected to quicken the offensive attack with plenty of help by Dan Corp.

The line lacks depth but will be large and mobile. Steve Kelby 250 pound center and tackle Gary Chevillet 6'4" 215 pound tackle will bulk up the line along with Steve Henry, Mark Bostedor, Rick Yankee and Jim Clancy, transfer ten craft shows plenty of talent and will be at an end position.

The team is small in number but the attitude and desire is there. The coaching staff feels that we have good hitters and if we can stay away from injuries we will be a serious challenger for the Tri-River championship.

Coach Jerry Pawloski is again handling the defensive team and we feel that our defense will be much improved over last year. Rick Jordon will be working with our backfield and feels that our backs are good size, fair speed, and tough. We know that we will improve on our 3-5 record from last year.

We are looking forward to our opening date with Taylor Center on Sept. 18th 2:00 o'clock at Cherry Hill.

LEE SMELTZER HURON HIGH

Huron football faces a major rebuilding job - coming off heavy graduation losses from the 1970 team. Three-fourths of an excellent backfield are gone including Glenn Dregansky (2nd team All-State), Tom Unin (All-County) and Butch Sumnick (2nd team All-league). Only two year letter winner Chuck Inman returns as a back with game experience. Two senior backs, Ray Lloyd and Wayne Kiser are returning letter winners - gaining their letters last year primarily as members of the specialty teams.

The schedule looks to be very tough with the league improved and the three teams picked to be in a fight for the championship of the Huron League all being played in the first four weeks.

If all homes were the same there'd be only one kind of electric heating system.

Homes are as different as the people who live in them —so just one type of electric heating system won't do. These are the more widely used kinds.

1. CENTRAL WARM AIR FURNACE Very compact. In it are electric heat coils through which air is propelled by the blower. For the best job yet of air cleansing, install an electrostatic filter.
2. HOT WATER HEAT Hot water from an electric boiler circulates to shielded radiators that look like baseboard. The boiler is small enough to hang on a wall or suspend from floor joists.
3. BASEBOARD UNITS These are installed along outside walls to provide a curtain of warm air between room occupants and the walls and windows. Temperature in each room is thermostatically controlled, independent of any other room.
4. HEATING CABLE Electrically insulated wire makes a grid across a ceiling; is fastened in place before finish plaster is applied. The entire ceiling becomes a radiator. Paint or decorate it as usual.
5. RADIANT PANELS Like the sun, they transmit heat by radiation. Panels are mounted on walls or ceiling. Heat radiates from such large areas that surface temperature of the panels need not be high.

With such variety, there are few heating problems which cannot be solved with electric heat. An Edison-approved electric heat dealer will survey your home; recommend the proper equipment; quote on installation; estimate your annual operating cost. No obligation, of course.
